VANCOUVER AIRMAN KILLED IN BURNING PLANE AFTER CRASH

Witnesses at Fernie Airport Drag Pilot R. B. Grant to Safety But Are Unable to Rescue Jack Beckwith, Mechanic—Machine Strikes Field-Marker When Taking Off

FERNIE, June 6 (CP).—Jack Beckwith, Vancouver airplane mechanic, was burned to death and Pilot R. B. Grant, of Vancouver, was injured slightly this afternoon, when the undercarriage of their plane struck the top of a Fernie airport field marker as they were taking off, and the machine crashed and burst into flames.

Employed by an oil company, the men landed here shortly after noon after a flight from Vancouver. They took on a load of gasoline and then attempted to take off for the Fuathead country in the southern corner of the Province.

The pilot appeared to be bothered by a cross-wind. When about three feet from the ground, the undercarriage of the plane struck the top of a field marker and the plane could not be righted before it crashed into a rail fence at the side of the field. It immediately burst into flames.

DRAGGED TO SAFETY

Grant was dragged to safety by spectators who dashed courageously into the flames to pull him from his seat but the rescuers could not reach the mechanic. His body was almost completely cremated.

Hubert Broley, of Fernie, pulled Grant to safety but it appeared Beckwith had been knocked unconscious by the crash and he was unable to help his would-be rescuers.

An inquest has been ordered.

EXTENDING LIFE OF COMMISSION

House of Commons Passes Vote for Radio—Premier Issues Warning

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—An active movement exists in Canada to destroy public control of radio, Premier R. B. Bennett warned the House of Commons today. He exhorted members to pay no need to it and to strengthen, not weaken, radio as a public utility.

At the same time, it was announced that the Government will introduce a bill in a few days to extend the life of the radio commission until March 31, 1936. This would permit, as Minister of Marine Alfred Duranleau said, "another Parliament to decide whether it should be abolished or its powers modified."

MONEY VOTE PASSED

The House passed a vote of $1,900,000 for the radio commission, which approximates the money collected by the Department of Marine in licences. The Minister of Marine said the commission had plans for building high-power stations in different parts of the country, mentioning Vancouver as one. The difficulty was to find the money to make a start.

Liberal and Labor members embraced the occasion to attack regulation nine of the commission, which they claimed forbids any radio speaker to criticize existing legislation.

This would muzzle election speakers, they claimed, and practically close the air to Opposition candidates.

NEVER BEEN USED

Mr. Duranleau claimed the regulation was not designed to muzzle election speakers, but to stop defamatory speeches, prevent slander and broadcasts contrary to the purpose of any legislation. It had never been used, he said, and he was willing to submit it to the commission for an explanation and withdraw it, if necessary.

REPORTS MILLION HIT BY DECISION

Labor Federation Survey Shows Many Wage Earners Receive Less and Work Longer

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor reported tonight at least 1,000,000 wage earners throughout the United States have had their wages cut, hours lengthened—or both—since the Supreme Court wiped out NRA codes.

"Tens of thousands of workers have been discharged as a result of longer hours, once again deprived of normal employment, once again thrown on the rolls of public relief," the federation said in announcing the results of a telegraphic survey of industrial conditions.

"Others have suffered from reduced wages or were forced to give up ten, twelve, eighteen additional hours every week for the same weekly pay."

HEAT WAVE CONTINUES

Mercury Climbs to Eighty-Three Here—Chance of Showers Announced

There is just a chance that fruit-growers may get the showers they have been hoping for during the past week. If showers should occur, it would mean another quarter of a million dollars to Saanich farmers, it is estimated.

Yesterday the mercury climbed to a maximum of 83 degrees in the standard screen at Gonzales Observatory, but there was a chance that the weather would be a little cooler today, and that perhaps there would be showers in thirty-six hours.

The mercury has a long way to go yet to reach the record for the month of June. The hottest June day on record is believed to be 95 degrees.

SOIL PARCHED

However, yesterday's maximum was 3 degrees above that of Wednesday, and the long dry spell that has continued since the first of April has caused very low humidity conditions, and parched the soil so that even incessant cultivation has failed to keep sufficient moisture in the ground to protect the strawberry crop.

A nice shower would help to swell the berries and save the situation, but a shower is quite problematical.

COMPARATIVELY COOL

While the Coast cities sweltered during the intense heat wave, the Interior of the Province, and the Prairie Provinces were reported comparatively cool. The high pressure area apparently is confined only to the Pacific Slope.

Fire hazards are increasing, and the public is warned to guard against starting grass or bush fires by lighted matches, or cigarette butts.

GOVERNOR TAKEN ILL AT PETAWAWA

Suffering From Bronchial Ailment—All Official Engagements Cancelled for the Week

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—Condition of the Earl of Bessborough, suffering from a bronchial ailment, was described today as improved, by J. F. Lascelles, his secretary.

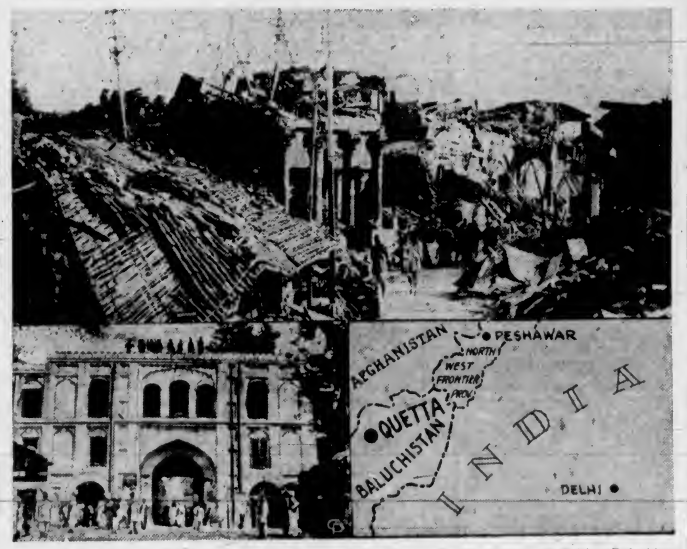

Mr. Lascelles said His Excellency arrived this morning by train from Petawawa military camp, where he became ill yesterday during a visit. He was met at the train by an ambulance and taken to Government House, where he went to bed at once.

Where Earthquake Took Terrible Toll

A death toll of 56,000 was reported in the earthquake which razed Quetta, capital of British Baluchistan, and one of the most important British military posts in India. Map above shows location of Quetta. Also shown are an earthquake scene in India and British fort in Peshawar, nearby city, from which aid was rushed.

DOMINION TRADE AND INDUSTRY BOARD WILL BE ESTABLISHED

Bill Introduced in House to Create Commission With Powers to Establish Commodity Standards and Grades—Functions Will Be Performed by Members of Tariff Board

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—Creation of a Dominion trade and industry commission along lines of the majority recommendation of the Royal Commission on price spreads and mass buying, with powers to establish commodity standards and grades, to enforce their observance and generally protect consumers and regulate business, was proposed to the House of Commons today in a bill introduced by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Functions of a commission of three provided for in the bill would be performed for the present by members of the Tariff Board, of which the chairman is Hon. George H. Sedgewick, with M. N. Campbell, vice-chairman, and C. P. Herbert the third member. These officers and their staff will assume the additional duties without extra cost to the treasury.

PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS

The only important new office to be created by the measure is that of the director of public prosecutions, who must be a barrister of ten years standing and whose salary is fixed at a maximum of $12,000.

Combines in business are recognized in the act as a possible requirement of efficient and fair trade, and the commission is empowered to make recommendations to the Governor-in-Council for approval of agreements creating combines in an industry which, in the unanimous opinion of the commission, is suffering from wasteful or demoralizing competition.

In co-operation with the National Research Council, the commission

Ultimatum Given China By Japanese

SHANGHAI, June 6 (AP). — Japan delivered a virtual ultimatum to China today, military and diplomatic officials alike threatening "drastic action" by the Japanese Army in North China unless issues there are settled quickly—and in accordance with Japanese views.

What the stiffening Japanese attitude portended for North China was not made known, but the opinion prevailed that the Japanese will soon occupy Tientsin and Peiping.

VANCOUVER, June 6 (CP).—Beatrice Johnson, thirty-nine, pleaded guilty before Judge C. J. Lennox in County Court today to committing perjury at the trial two months ago of Joe Celona, Clarence Bancroft and Mrs. Ellen Joyce, who were convicted of procuring. She was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

DEADLOCK LOOMS IN NAVAL TALKS

Germany Unwilling to Reduce Tonnage Claims or Give Details of Building Plans

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—Well-informed naval quarters reported today two issues are threatening to deadlock the current Anglo-German naval conventions.

Unwillingness of the Germans to reduce their claims to a navy at least one-third the size of Britain's was understood to be the chief obstacle. The other is the German delegation's unwillingness to give full details of the naval building plans of the Reich, naval quarters believe.

Already the talks, which started with two sessions Tuesday, are giving signs of a disagreement by the long delays between meetings.

FIND TONS OF BOGUS SLUGS IN TURNSTILES

NEW YORK, June 6 (CP).—City police will dump into Long Island Sound, Saturday, two tons of bogus slugs colected in subway turnstiles. The collection represents a loss to the system of $31,000 during the nearly three years of its operation.

BURGLAR IN OWN HOME

HALIFAX, June 6 (CP).—Joseph Allen went on trial here today on charges of breaking and entering his own home. It had been closed by sheriff's order under an execution for rent.

LAVAL FORMS FRESH CABINET

Completes His Line-Up to Fight Deterioration of The Franc

(Copyright, 1935, by the Havas News Agency)

PARIS, June 7 (CP-Havas).—Pierre Laval succeeded in forming a Cabinet early this morning. He announced at 2:35 a.m., that he had completed a Cabinet line-up he hopes will be able to save the franc.

Working with his characteristic energy and speed, the sturdy Premier-designate from Auvergne, succeeded in six hours in reconciling divergent groups in the Chamber of Deputies at a moment when political tension had reached a climax.

Considering the scope of the crisis, Paris was relatively calm.

Vancouver Island Held Back by Load of Debts Built Up on Mainland

By B. A. McKELVIE

In a fifty-mile stretch of the Fraser Valley, between New Westminster and Port Moody on the west and Rosedale and Harrison Lake on the east, in a little more than two years (1929-1931) it is estimated that the Provincial Government expended no less than $4,500,000 in highway improvement. The reconstruction of the Cariboo Road between Yale and Ashcroft cost more than $4,500,000 between 1925 and 1929. These were but two of the many major highway developments on the Mainland in the past ten years. They were necessary projects, perhaps, but proportionately as important projects on Vancouver Island were not developed.

Vancouver Island requires highway extensions. Such extensions have been promised by successive Governments, but have failed to materialize. Failure to provide the Island with good roads has retarded its development.

BARRED FROM OCEAN

The construction of a road to Long Beach has been urged for a score of years. There is no place in British Columbia that a motorist can drive from the main road system to see the waters of the Pacific. Each week-end during the Summer months motorists leave Victoria, cross to Port Angeles and travel to La Push on the American coast to enjoy a few hours on the sands where the Pacific combers break; yet one of the finest beaches on the whole Pacific seaboard is on the Coast of Vancouver Island and cannot be reached.

Delegation after delegation have approached different administrations—and have been promised—

SEATTLE SHIP CALLS FOR AID AT SEYMOUR NARROWS

Steamer Cordova Sends SOS. After Breaking Tail-shaft—Is Reported Leaking With Pumps Able to Handle Inflow of Water—Has Nearly One Hundred Passengers Aboard

Salvage King, U.S. Cutter and Comox Tug Answer Appeal

HER tail shaft broken and taking water through the shaft alley, the Alaska Steamship Company coastal liner Cordova reported her condition at 9:25 o'clock last night from Duncan Bay, just south of Seymour Narrows, and twenty minutes later sent out a general distress call.

At 11 o'clock the Pacific Salvage Company's Salvage King put out from here to go to the aid of the stricken ship. Early this morning the United States Coast Guard cutter Redwing was on her way from Port Angeles and the tug Island Comet was on her way from Comox expecting to be alongside by 3 o'clock this morning.

With ninety-six passengers, mostly herring salting crews for southeastern Alaskan canneries, and many women aboard, the Cordova sailed from Seattle at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for Seward. She carried a crew of about fifty officers and men.

The captain of the Cordova reported some time after sending out the distress call that the ship's pumps were handling the intake of water successfully, according to the Seattle Harbor Radio. No cause was given for the accident.

IS DANGEROUS PASSAGE

Seymour Narrows are on the inland route to Northern British Columbia and Alaska and is a dangerous passage due to swift running tides and the presence of a large rock in the centre of the Narrows. Small boats are able to make the passage only at favorable stages of the tide.

The Cordova is a combination passenger and freight ship. She is of 2,273 tons gross, 238 feet long, forty-one feet beam and twenty feet deep. She was built in 1912.

Nuns and Monks Given No Support Against the State

BERLIN, June 6 (CP-Havas).—Fifty Catholic nuns and monks now awaiting trial for violation of Germany's financial laws were without support of their church today following a declaration from Cardinal Bertram, Bishop of Breslau, there was no excuse for actions that hurt the "State and the people."

DEATH CALLS LORD BYNG

Former Leader of Canadian Troops and Governor-General Passes

THORPE-LE-SOKEN, England, June 6 (CP-Havas).—"Leader of men in the best sense of the word," Field Marshal Julian Hedworth Byng, first Viscount Byng of Vimy, died early today following an operation for an abdominal ailment that had long troubled him, and which became acute on Tuesday.

Death thus removed still another from the fast-thinning ranks of the Empire's wartime leaders, the man who preceded Canada's late General Sir Arthur Currie, in command of the Canadian corps, who held the Governor-Generalship of Canada from 1921 to 1926, and then, still denied the retirement he sought, reorganized the Metropolitan Police of London through 1928-31.

NO MILITARY POMP

The tribute paid him by Lieut.-General Sir Henry Burstall, wartime commander of the 2nd Canadian Division, was echoed by the Empire's military and public figures tonight even as they prepared to bury him without ostentation. It was Byng's own request that there be no military ceremony in connection with his funeral, which will take place quietly from Thorpe Hall, where he died, next Saturday.

REVERTED LAND SALES GAINING

More Business Done by City So Far This Year Than For All of 1934

A revival in interest in city reverted land is being experienced by the land committee of the City Council, which already has sold more property so far this year than was sold during the whole of last year, it was announced yesterday.

The committee, comprising Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, chairman; Alderman Archie Wills and Alderman Andrew McGavin, yesterday afternoon considered four more offers for city property, which will send the sales for 1935 far beyond the 1934 mark.

In addition to the increased number of sales, the committee is continually receiving applications from former property owners wishing to re-establish ownership of tax sale property.

These property owners are being encouraged to re-establish their ownership as much as possible. In many instances of sales, and re-establishment of ownership, there have been plans announced for new homes, and the committee is bending every effort to encourage the purchase of land with a view to inducing people to build. In this way more property will be placed on the tax list, and the improvements will help to swell the tax revenue, thus making it possible to ultimately reduce the tax rate.

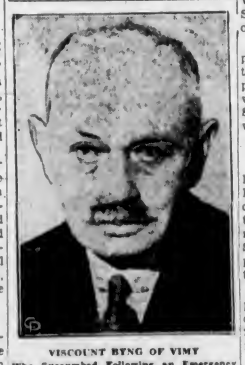

Jewelry Store at Calgary Robbed

CALGARY, June 6 (CP).—Jewel thieves early today broke into the store of Henry Birks & Sons here and escaped with approximately $5,000 worth of jewels. Included in the "haul" were 100 rings, a number of watches and binoculars.

Many Require First Aid at Rose Pageant

PORTLAND, June 6 (AP). — A scorching hot sun was too much for twenty girls, who fainted in the coronation pageant of the Portland Rose Festival today. All went through their drills without flaw, but standing at ease in the windless stadium bowl witnessing subsequent phases of the ceremonies was too much for a number. An ambulance and first aid workers were kept busy.

Uttering Bogus Bills in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, June 6 (CP).—Winnipeg police today warned citizens against a band of counterfeiters who they said were distributing bogus $1 bills in the city. The only difference between the counterfeit product and the Bank of Canada note, they said, was a slight difference in the crispness of the paper.

SEEK GENERAL STRIKE BALLOT

Longshoremen in Vancouver Propose to Tie Up B.C. Shipping

VANCOUVER, June 6 (CP).—While two deepsea ships continued unloading operations with non-union labor a call for a general strike ballot went out tonight to every waterfront organization in British Columbia affiliated with the Longshore Water Transport Workers' Union of Canada.

To Longshore locals at New Westminster, Victoria, Alberni and Chemainus and log handlers, grain liners and fitters of Vancouver the parent body sent notification to hold a ballot on a general strike to be caled at the discretion of the L.W.T.W.U. of C.

Meanwhile volunteer gangs continued unloading cargoes of the Empress of Japan and the California Express. The latter vessel, a ship of the Fruit Express Line, is discharging bananas and is expected to sail tomorrow with twelve passengers.

Sea Lion Napping on Launch Turns Laugh Against His Hunter

Boat Owner Tries to Photograph Him, Indian Tries to Shoot Him, But Marine Monster Makes Playful Exit to Safety

NANAIMO, June 6.—A four-hundred-pound sea lion was found dozing on the decked-in stern of a sixteen-foot launch owned by H. F. Winkleman here this morning. Last night Mr. Winkleman anchored his launch forty yards from shore. His kitchen window commands a view of the waterfront and this morning he looked out and saw what he thought was a man fishing from his launch.

An hour later he went to the beach to investigate and saw the sea lion napping on his boat. He returned home for a camera, and then took a canoe to a larger launch anchored a few yards from his own craft.

TOO LATE IN ACTION

He was too late to get a picture, as the sea lion slipped off into the water and started to swim but would only show himself occasionally. By this time quite an audience had gathered on the beach. Johnny Bob, an Indian from the nearby reserve was one. He went home, procured a gun, and set forth in a dugout to kill the lion. He intended to board the large launch and await his chance for a shot.

SUCCESSFUL OFFENSIVE

It came sooner than he expected. Just as he reached the side of the launch the huge sea dweller came up alongside the canoe and gave a playful but noisy snort. Forgetful of his gun, his canoe and ammunition, Bobby John sent forth a husky yell and clambered aboard the launch, while canoe and gun drifted away. The sea lion disappeared in the depths, while the spectators on the beach gave his would-be killer a hearty round of applause for his display of agility in changing boats, and also for the strength of his vocal cords.

Rev. M. A. Talnicoff Gives Reasons Why Boys Leave Church

Says Average Boy of Twelve Would Rather Be a Baseball Hero Than an Angel—Dean Quainton Declares Church Needs a Spiritual Clinic

STATISTICS show that sixty-two out of every 100 boys leave the church between the ages of twelve and sixteen years, and seventy-seven out of every 100 leave when between sixteen and twenty years, Rev. M. A. Talnicoff, pastor of Edmond's Baptist Church, Burnaby, told delegates to the thirty-ninth annual Baptist Church convention at the First Baptist Church here yesterday afternoon.

"Before we can solve this problem, we must study the boy and learn how to minister to his needs," the speaker declared. "The boy of twelve years of age does not want to be an angel, but would rather be a football, Rugby or baseball hero. Just watch him in church fidgeting through a long sermon while his dad is out golfing or resting up for the Sunday afternoon drive. The lad sits between his mother and sister while his mind fancifully takes him out in the woods, on the beach or to some such pleasant spot. Grownups often forget that they experienced the same feelings in their day."

CHARACTERISTICS

Mr. Talnicoff stated the average boy of twelve possessed characteristics of rebellion, doubt, day dreaming, social conscience, self-conscience, activity and love.

In rebelling, the boy sought to break away from restraint, thinking that he was capable of judgment. In doubting, he questions everything, and parents should answer him in full. In day dreaming, he visioned what career he would like to follow. These day dreams should not be laughed at lest parents lose their influence forever over the boy.

"A boy exhibits social conscience when he wants to share his experiences with other boys and joins a gang," asserted Mr. Talnicoff. "His self-consciousness is noticeable in church, where he seeks a back pew.

ACTIVITY AND LOVE

"Activity is manifested when the boy shows a desire to constantly have something to do or indulge in sports and various other pleasures. You see him shifting and squirming in church. He shows love by devotion to his gang, his toys, books and his hero, real or imaginary," said the speaker.

"Taking these and other matters into consideration, I do not think that it is good policy to have women teaching boys in Sunday school. A Sunday school teacher should be closely in touch with boys' activities during the week, and a leader of boys must be a man who knows boys and remembers his own boyhood," Mr. Talnicoff asserted.

"BEING CAPTURED"

"Three o'clock on a hot Summer's afternoon is not a time when spiritual instincts are at their best," remarked Very Rev. Cecil S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, in opening a talk on "Being Captured."

"Christ first of all captivated men and then captured their hearts," he continued. "Some persons think themselves spiritually healthy, but there is an inner weakness which medically could be likened to cancer or heart disease. We all have individual problems like temper, understanding, money matters, anxiety and freedom in the realm of thought to overcome."

THE CAPTURED SOUL

There were six marks of the captured soul, the Dean claimed. They were a sense of forgiveness for sins, a new sense of power over known sins, a new sense of peace, a new gaiety of spirit, a new love for others and willingness to share with others.

When rubbed the wrong way by anybody, the speaker urged his hearers to pray for the person by name, remember that God loved them also and look upon them through the eyes of Christ. He closed by declaring that the church needed less preaching and more of a spiritual clinic, with the pastor dealing more with individual cases.

Rev. A. C. Bingham reported on Keats Island Baptist Church Summer encampment, twenty miles west of Vancouver. Twelve-year-old and teen age boys will be there from July 3 to 13; young people's weekend, July 14; assembly, July 15 to 25; junior girls, twelve to fifteen years, July 26 to August 5, and senior girls, fifteen years and up, August 6 to 16.

RECEIVES MEDAL

Rev. James J. Smithson, president of the convention, received a Silver Jubilee Medal at the evening session. It was pinned upon his coat by Mrs. C. C. Spofford, honorary president of Baptist Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Smithson received a bouquet of flowers, after which all sang "God Save the King." Rev. J. L. Sloat spoke of the homage paid King George V by his subjects in all parts of the Empire and expressed gratification that Mr. Smithson had been so singularly honored at His Majesty's command.

In an address to the young people, Dr. John R. C. Evans, president of Brandon College, stated that Canada's greatest asset lay in the 3,000,000 boys and girls throughout the Dominion.

IMPORTANCE OF WORK

"These boys and girls are assets, indeed, but they may become liabilities hence the improntance of our work among them," said Dr. Evans. "You young people should count the day lost if you have not done something to develop your talents every twenty-four hours. Personality is like an iceberg; most of it is below the surface. Below the threshold of consciousness are great powers for good or evil.

"Even if you are well educated, you have missed your mark unless you have developed Christian citizenship, a love of truth, loyalty, sensitivity to right, tolerance, sympathy and brotherly love toward your fellows, and a sincere and vital relationship to God," he added.

Dr. Evans asked the young people to ponder and think what kind of men or women they would make. In the Autumn of their lives, they should be able to look back upon a clean record, he said.

WAVE OF CRIME

"We are ashamed of crime in the United States. Our jails are full. We spend $33,000,000 each day fighting crime," Rev. Victor N. Witter, of Seattle, told delegates in a talk on "The Church's Responsibility in a Changing World."

"The administration at Washington, D.C., seems to be perpetuating crime, particularly by elimination of the Eighteenth Amendment," he continued. "In Seattle you cannot go anywhere to eat without seeing drinking going on or without having women blow smoke in your face. Now the liquor barons in the United States are planning a campaign to induce prohibitionists to drink. Surely you in Victoria don't want beer and wines in your eating-places with their accompanying evils?" he asked.

POWERFUL LEADERS

"Today we stand upon the threshold of a new era. We are facing a most strategic time in the world's history. The church must have a knowledge of existing conditions and must assume a definite responsibility in helping solve problems of the day. The church must have powerful leaders, men who fear nothing and who will not succumb to the wiles of flatterers and of those who seek to perpetuate evil. The church definitely must extend the radius of its influence before the world may become a better place to live in," he concluded amid thunderous applause.

The convention will resume business again at 9:30 o'clock this morning to discuss various reports, hear an inspirational talk by Dean Quainton and elect officers. Deliberations will be terminated this evening with an address by Rev. W. C. Smalley.

"Dad, how can guns kick when they have no legs?" asked Bertie.

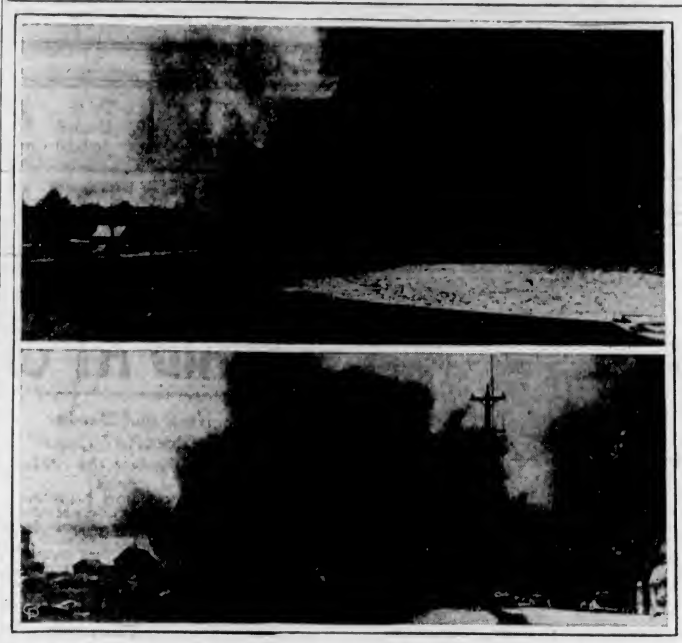

"Don't ask absurb questions," said his father.

"Guns haven't any legs, have they, dad?"

"Certainly not!"

"Well, then, what's the use of their having breeches?"

Province to Advertise in Press and on Radio Outline of Fiscal Aims

Premier Pattullo declined yesterday to add anything to his statement of the previous day, regarding Dominion-Provincial fiscal relations, nor was the source from which British Columbia might "otherwise" borrow money delineated.

The Premier said that all members of the Cabinet will be together in the city next week, and consideration would then be given to whatever is the next step to be taken by the Province. Until such discussion nothing further would be said, he intimated.

TO OUTLINE CASE

Speaking of the general position of British Columbia, the Premier intimated the Government plans to place advertising in leading papers throughout Canada, explaining the position of the Province and its aims in the present negotiations.

The Premier will follow this up on June 14 by the fourth of a series of radio addresses to be broadcast from his office over the British Columbia llnes of the Canadian Broadcasting system through CRCV, Vancouver, speaking between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

Hon. John Hart, who conducted the British Columbia negotiations in the East, is expected back in Victoria by the end of the week.

Canadian Criminal Appeals Cannot Be Carried to London

Canada Has Right to Bar Cases From Privy Council, Lord Chancellor Announces—Judgment Given in Free State Petition

LONDON, June 6 (C.P.).—The judicial committee of His Majesty's Privy Council today delivered two judgments which in effect mean that Canada has the right to bar appeals to the Privy Council in criminal cases, and that the Irish Free State has the right to abolish appeal to the Privy Council—the King—in all cases.

Lord Sankey, the Lord Chancellor, delivered the judgments, which followed months of argument before Their Lordships of the judicial committee on cases of far-reaching constitutional import. The Canadian decision confirms the existing Canadian Criminal Code, which does not recognize the right of appeal in criminal matters.

THE IRISH DECISION

The Irish decision is that the Free State, since passage of the Statute of Westminster, which formally recognizes the right of self-government and the equality of Dominion Parliaments with that of the United Kingdom, is entitled to disregard that article of the previous Irish Free State Constitution which preserved the right of appeal to the King.

Specifically, the Privy Council first dismissed the petition of the British Coal Corporation of Quebec for special leave to appeal against a Quebec court decision which convicted the corporation, along with others, of an illegal combine to maintain prices, and fined the corporation.

Secondly, Their Lordships dismissed petition for leave to appeal from an Irish Free Stae decision that was made a test case.

ARGUED COINCIDENTALLY

The two petitions were linked together by Their Lordships, as both involved the issue of the right to appeal from self-governing Dominions, one of which, Canada, retains the right of appeal to His Majesty in all other than purely criminal cases. They were argued coincidentally and the judgments were coincident.

Dealing with the petition from the Province of Quebec, Their Lordships' decision, as read by Lord Sankey, said: "The appeal, if special leave is granted, is from the decision of a Canadian court and is to secure a reversal or alteration of the order of the Canadian court. If it is successful, its effect will be that the order of the Canadian court will be reformed accordingly.

"The appellant and the respondent in any such appeal must be Canadian subjects, or persons who of the Canadian courts. Such appeals (criminal) must be essentially matters of Canadian concern, and the regulation and control of such appeals would thus seem to be a prime element of Canadian sovereignty as appertaining to matters of justice.

VESTED IN DOMINION

"Their Lordships see no valid reason since the Statute of Westminster, why the power to regulate or prhoibit this type of appeal should not be held to be vested in the Dominion Parliament. Their Lordships have been dealing only with the legal position in Canada in regard to this type of appeal in criminal matters.

"It is here neither necessary nor desirable to touch on the position as regards civil cases. For all these reasons, Their Lordships are of the opinion the petition for leave to appeal should be dismissed."

The Irish judgment was read first, Lord Sankey reciting that the Irish Treaty reserved the right to Free State citizens of appeal to His Majesty, because that right was part of the law practised and of constitutional usage at that time (1922) governing the relationship of the Crown and the representative of the Crown in Ireland.

Under Article 50 of the Irish Constitution which followed upon the treaty, said Lord Sankey, that right of petition His Majesty could not be amended by abolishing the right of appeal.

"In December, 1931, the Statute of Westminster was passed, as a result of the Imperial Conference in which Irish Free State representatives participated.

"The effect of the Statute of Westminster was to remove the fetter which lay upon the Irish Free State Legislature by reason of the Colonial Laws Validity Act. That Legislature could now pass acts repugnant to an Imperial (United Kingdom) act, and in the case under consideration they have done so." have submitted to the jurisdiction

The British are planning one more attempt to scale Mount Everest. It is the old bulldog spirit, with a dash of St Bernard.

A school inspector was examining a class during one of his official visits. "How many days are there in the year?" he asked one of the young hopefuls. "Seven, sir," was the instant response. "Think again," said the inspector. "I said a year, not a week. How many days in a year?" "Seven, sir," repeated the boy. "Perhaps you will tell me how you make that out," said the inspector. "Well, sir, there's Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and I don't know any more."

FRENCH-FRIED POTATOES
the easy, digestible Crisco way:

1. Peel potatoes. Cut into sticks ½ inch thick. Soak in ice-cold water at least one hour. Then dry thoroughly in towel.
2. Melt enough digestible Crisco slowly to fill flat-bottomed deep saucepan ⅓ full. Bring slowly to heat that browns cube of bread in 20 seconds (395° F.).
3. Fry small batches of potatoes at a time, always raising heat for 1 minute as a new batch is put in. Fry until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Salt before serving.
4. Strain Crisco back into its can. DO NOT mix other fats with CRISCO! Use for frying croquettes, fritters, doughnuts, onions, fish. Crisco will not give the taste of one food to another.

Forestry Plan Is Working Smoothly As Relief Measure

Training Camp Being Opened at Easterly End of Cowichan Lake to Accommodate Youths—Ranger, Trail and Camp Crews Filling Up

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S forest training plan for youths in need was being translated into practical reality yesterday, with 100 young men in the field, and 300 others to follow without delay. Three Provincial departments are co-operating in the scheme, relief offices providing the money, employment officials selecting the men, and the operations branch of the forestry service taking charge in the woods.

Hon. George S. Pearson, under whose direction the scheme is being launched, explained that the Province was forced by circumstances to limit placements to those in actual need, selecting young men between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-five, who have been ten years resident in British Columbia. Hundreds of additional applications have been received, but limits of the plan are set by the funds available.

TO AID IN WORK

Upwards of 100 young men have already been detailed in ones and twos to accompany forest rangers. They will not take part in fire-fighting, but will assist in dispatching and in other work, freeing the regular force of fire prevention staffs for service requiring a degree of experience.

After physical examination, 150 others are now being selected, and will be split between three forest training camps. One camp will be opened at the south-easterly end of Cowichan Lake, another at Green Timbers, five miles south of New Westminster, and the third at Aleza Lake, forty miles east of Prince George. Within ten days these camps will be full.

TRAIL CUTTING

The third section of the scheme will provide opportunity for placement of 150 young men, who will be split in fifteen trail-cutting crews of ten men each, under competent direction. The trail crews will be made up within ten days' time, it is expected.

That will give a total of 400 placements under the system, which is the present objective. Later, if funds permit, the scheme may be enlarged to possibly 500 young men all told, it is intimated. In each three sections of the scheme, men accepted by the Province for training will receive thorough instruction in forest affairs.

Two officers, each from a number of regiments, however, will attend the service, and His Majesty will be represented at a memorial service in London by Viscount Allenby, Field-Marshal Allenby, of Palestine fame, who becomes virtually the only ranking British military leader of the Great War left on this earth.

Byng had been in failing health of late years. He returned only recently from the latest of his ocean voyages, after spending weeks in California, where his condition was rather serious. He suffered a heart attack on the way back, but did not seem to be in critical condition until a few days ago.

EMERGENCY OPERATION

On Tuesday the seventy-two-year-old soldier became acutely ill and an emergency operation was performed. The medical bulletin, issued only today, said: "Unhappily, heart failure followed," and he died at 2 o'clock this morning.

His death, said Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner, "will be an occasion of widespread sorrow throughout Canada, where his services as a soldier, his ability as an administrator, and his qualities as a man, were profoundly appreciated."

Byng succeeded Major-General E. A. H. Alderson as commander of the Canadian corps—created a year previously with Alderson, its first chief—in May, 1916, and held that position until fourteen months later, when he was promoted general commanding the third army, and the leadership of the Canadian corps was entrusted to Sir Arthur Currie. All three commanders of the Canadian corps have now passed from the scene.

The Great War, which shattered so many army careers among soldiers of all nations, made that of Lord Byng.

He emerged from the conflict a popular hero, among his most brilliant exploits being the leadership of the Canadians in the successful storming of Vimy Ridge, April 6-9, 1917.

When hostilities commenced he was a major-general commanding in Egypt, with a service record dating back to the Soudan expedition of 1884, and including citations and promotions for bravery in the Boer War of 1899. Speeded to the scene of action in Europe he was elevated successively from command of a cavalry division to a cavalry corps, an army corps at the Dardanelles, the Canadian corps in France and finally to the third British army.

REWARDS FOR SERVICES

He earned promotion to rank of lieutenant-general, then to full general, and when he retired in 1919 he received the thanks of Parliament, a grant of £30,000 sterling and elevation to the peerage as Baron Byng of Vimy and Thorpe-le-Soken.

Two years later, in August, 1921, he accepted the post of Governor-General of Canada. The Cree Indians made him a chief of the tribe, calling him "Buffalo Head." McGill University bestowed the honorary degree of LL.D.

In November, 1928, he became commissioner of Metropolitan Police by an appointment, which was described by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the then Home Secretary, as "a stern call to duty."

COMPLETELY REORGANIZED

Lord Byng immediately launched a complete reorganization. Every department of Scotland Yard's activities was touched; the whole administration was tightened up. When failing health compelled him to go to South Africa and later to France to recuperate, he continued to direct the reforms.

Soon after his sixty-ninth birthday, he relinquished the office, giving age and health as the sole reasons. He looked back on his three years at the post and was satisfied to call London's police "the finest force in the world."

Rest and travel followed, one trip in 1932 taking him to the West Indies, thence through the Panama Canal to Southern California, whence he journeyed home via Vancouver and across Canada. In October of that year he was created field marshal.

Julian Hedworth George Byng was born September 11, 1862, seventh son of the second Earl of Strafford. He was married, April 30, 1902, to Marie Evelyn, only child of Sir Richard Moreton. He left no heir.

CANADIAN TRIBUTES

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—Men prominent in Canada's military and political life today joined in paying tribute to Viscount Byng. Premier Bennett referred to Lord Byng's fifty years in the army climaxed by his command of the Canadian Corps during the war.

Lord Byng led the Canadian Corps to victories largely because of the troops' affection for him. Lord Byng, he concluded, "Has left behind an imperishable memory," and his name will live in Canadian history as long as history exists.

Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war-time Prime Minister:

"The tidings Lord Byng has passed will be received with deep sorrow throughout Canada. Throughout his life, duty was his watchword. His admiration, as well as affection, for Canadians who served under him are well known. I mourn his loss as that of a very dear friend."

Not only from senior officers of the Canadian Corps, but from men in the ranks came expressions today of great affection they had for their deceased comrade and commander.

QUARREL OVER BEADS HAS FATAL RESULT

MONTREAL, June 6 (C.P.).—A struggle over a string of artificial pearls found by two children brought death to two-year-old Yvon Degenais here today. The children each claimed ownership and when the string snapped a fragment of broken bead entered Yvon's eye. Infection set in and proved fatal.

Delegation Today Will Protest Any Extra Liquor Sale

As a sequel to the temperance talk of Rev. Andrew Roddan, of Vancouver, before delegates to the thirty-ninth annual Baptist Church convention here, representatives of Baptist Churches of British Columbia plan to wage war against any move to sell beer and light wines in restaurants.

W. C. Kelley, K.C., West Summerland; W. C. Atherton, Vancouver; Rev. J. L. Sloat, New Westminster; William Marchant, Victoria, and Rev. G. A. Reynolds, pastor of First Baptist Church here, plan a visit today to Hon. Gordon M. Sloan, K.C., Attorney-General. They will request that there be no change made in the Liquor Control Act to permit any extra sale of wine or beer.

ARION CLUB CHOIR HEARD

Group Gives Concert in Traditional Style—Leadership Is Divided

There is a tradition behind the Arion Club Choir always present when this group gives a concert, and last night's 109th regular performance was no exception. The tradition of the choir is one it is bound to live up to, and the programme, given to a large audience in the crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel, maintained the fine standard of the past in every degree.

There was a fine balance of tone, splendid sense of rhythm, good intonation, nice phrasing and sharp attacks. The various part entries were cleverly executed and sung with excellent assurance.

This year the choir drew on two of its members to provide the solo selections. Thomas Kelway sang Handel's famous largo movement in commemoration of the composer's 250th anniversary, and followed with "Where E'er You Are." His performance was accorded an encore, indicative of the audience's approval. Dr. Richard Felton sang the sentry song from the opening of Act II of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Iolanthe." As an encore he recited the lines from the second act of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Patience."

FINE PROGRAMME

Reference is made each year to the admirable manner in which the programme for the Arion Club concert is arranged. Presented in artistic style, the programme not only gave the names of the choral numbers, but the words of the piece, with suitable quotations preceding them.

At last night's concert the honors of leadership were divided between Frank Sehl, conductor, and P. H. Hughes, assisting conductor. Both were accorded rousing ovations. This was particularly noticeable at the conclusion of Franz Schubert's "The Erlking," in which the accompaniment is reminiscent of Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries" at certain phases of this narrative song, and also at the close of Mendelssohn's exquisite chorus, "Fair Semele's High-Born Son," from "Antigone." There was little choice between the two. Although of entirely different patterns and moods, the two numbers stood out as the gems of a really well-balanced programme.

ENGLISH ATMOSPHERE

In H. A. Matthews' "A Surrey Song," the choir brought to the audience a bit of Old England. Williams' "Song of the Pedlar" revived another countryside scene, while Bach's "And Now 'Tis Time to Go" found this master of the fugue in an entirely different mood.

"Night," a composition by K. J. Middleton, a charter member of the choir, now resident in Tacoma, contained some beautiful close harmony and semi-tone progressions that made this vesper one of surpassing beauty.

Contrasting this was Sir A. C. Mackenzie's almost ditty-like song, "A Franklyn's Dogge." "The Erlking" closed the first part of the programme.

DIFFICULT NUMBER

"Westward Ho," by Candish, gave the choir plenty of scope to reveal its timbre and ability to execute not only some difficult entries and passages, but also its sense of the dramatic. "Suomi's Song," by Franz Mair, was full of deep mysticism, and the choir revealed a true appreciation of the piece in its interpretation. The eerie atmosphere of "The Knight's Ghost," by Kreutzer, was ably portrayed, while "The Bells of Notre Dame," by Gustav Klemm, was sung with majestic outline.

A novelty number, "The Big Brown Bear," by Mana-Zucca, gave a pleasing contrast and was accorded an outstanding ovation. "Fair Semele's High-Born Son" concluded the programme.

Mrs. Clifford Warn was the accompanist, and in her dependable, accomplished style, ably assisted the choir. Her accompaniments to Schubert's "The Erlking" and the Mendelssohn number were particularly appreciated.

Fear of Cholera Increases Horror

SIMLA, India, June 6 (AP).—Grave fears of a serious outbreak of cholera, arising from the decaying bodies of more than 20,000 victims still buried in the earthquake-levelled ruins of Quetta, were expressed today in a communique issued by the Indian Government.

The Governor-General warned no persons will be permitted to enter the quake zone owing to the danger of epidemic.

Before using a cleanser on bathroom or kitchen enamel fixtures, test it by taking two pieces of scrap glass, placing a little of the cleanser on one piece and then rubbing them together. If the glass is scratched don't use the cleanser on your enamel fixtures. Porcelain enamel is an opaque glass and many of its ingredients are similar to those used in making window glass.

HIS DRAMATIC CAREER

Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald is to resign as Prime Minister today after being head of the National Government in Great Britain ever since its formation. Even if he remains in politics he has entered the twilight of a career which has extended over forty years and which has been remarkable in many ways, particularly in regard to changing public opinion affecting the political courses he pursued. There is, indeed, an element of high dramatic interest in the career of Mr. MacDonald. He rose from obscurity and poverty; his struggle to win recognition was a difficult one because of his early radical views. As time went on those views became tempered by the white light of experience until he emerged finally as a Conservative of the Conservatives. Mr. MacDonald since he joined the National Government could never be described as a Socialist, a title in which he revelled for so long during his political life.

Perhaps Mr. MacDonald's Socialism was always of the pink variety. Whatever its color the attempt to put it into practice when he headed the Labor Government gave the first rude shock to his views, for it was then, more than ever before, that he discovered the temper of the British people and their steadfast belief in the inalienable right of the freedom they had won through the centuries. It was when head of a Labor Government that Mr. MacDonald graduated into the higher school of politics. His mind was broad enough to achieve this end, because, even as a Socialist, he was one who repudiated the materialistic interpretation of history, repudiated bureaucratic control and did not believe in the immediate destruction of the capitalistic system.

There was a notable illustration of the equanimity of temperament of Mr. MacDonald during the early years of the war. He did not believe that Great Britain should have entered the struggle. War was definitely against his principles at the time, no matter what the issues involved. He lived to learn that Great Britain was right and that where the issue is tyranny against freedom there are times when it becomes vital to resort to the battlefield. In the early war years Mr. MacDonald was the subject of much vituperation. Many of his old comrades disowned him. He was struck off the rolls of his golf club. Other men subjected to the same indignities would have become soured and embittered. That was not so in the case of Mr. MacDonald. He bore the "slings and arrows of an outrageous fortune" calmly and lived down a reputation which would have ended the political career of almost anyone else.

It was within a comparatively few years of the declaration of peace that Mr. MacDonald was called upon to form a Government and one which, because of lack of a definite majority in the House of Commons, was precariously perched in power. To the Premiership he brought many qualifications. He knew all classes of people. He had traveled widely. He was well read. He struggled courageously in his office though never in good health, but he possessed immense will power, that strength which conquers so many obstacles, which even, where physical disadvantages have to be encountered, conquers them. This latter fact is illustrated by recalling that over twenty years ago Mr. MacDonald was given only twelve months to live. He never wilted under the verdict. He went on equipping himself for his political tasks. He found in the exercise of the mind the means of staving off the inroads of physical disability. He triumphed, in fact, and won his way through failures and adversities to the position of Prime Minister.

Mr. MacDonald's career is the proof of how democracy thrives in Great Britain, how the lowest in the land may by his own merits, and provided he possesses the abilities, rise to high place. With him it was force of personality that changed what was national distrust into national appreciation. Mr. MacDonald was never one of those leaders who have been loved, but in later years he was undoubtedly respected. There are those who disagree with the policies he pursued, but there are none who will claim that he was not worthy of the high position that ultimately fell to his lot, or who will grudge him the admiration that is due to the manner in which he has conducted the fortunes of the National Government. His political experience was perhaps more variegated than that of any man of his times. No other man could have won through to the journey's end in quite the same manner as did the Prime Minister who retires today.

LORD BYNG OF VIMY

The late Lord Byng of Vimy had two scenes of his life which endeared him to Canadians. The first was as leader of the Canadian Expeditionary Force for a period during the Great War; the second was his subsequent term of Governor-General. He had a life, up to recent years, full of activity, for after he left Canada he was appointed to reorganize the Metropolitan Police Force of London. His chief feat in the Great War was when, in command of the Canadians, the ever-memorable assault was made on Vimy Ridge, an episode of outstanding courage and determination. That assault was organized by the late Viscount. In the war as a whole the professional military talents of Lord Byng were widely used, and he emerged from the struggle with a military reputation much enhanced.

Both as Governor-General and as leader of the Canadian Force, Lord Byng was popular. He attained an immediate grasp of the possibilities of the troops from this country. He recognized their enthusiasm and their physique. No doubt his reports to headquarters led to the prominent place given to the Canadians in the struggle, and particularly in many spearhead attacks. As Governor-General, Lord Byng measured up well to an illustrious line of predecessors. It is true that he became the centre of a controversy when, after accepting the resignation of the Mackenzie King Government he called on Mr. Arthur Meighen to form a new Government instead of following the advice of Mr. King and dissolving Parliament. There was certain acrimony engendered because of this course, but it may be doubted if Lord Byng himself lost any personal popularity. He did what he thought was right though it did not meet with the wishes of all, as could readily be understood under the circumstances. It is not this incident in his gubernatorial career that will be remembered. It is the virtues which he brought to bear on the discharge of his duties and the place which he occupied in the hearts of those he had led overseas. Lord Byng had adaptable characteristics. He made good as Governor-General and in other duties to which he was assigned, but he was the soldier first, last and all the time. His services in the war earned the thanks of a grateful nation when the British Parliament awarded him a grant of $150,000. His military service was a prolonged one, and from June, 1917, to the close of the Great War he was in command of the British Third Army. A foremost soldier is gone in his passing, which will be especially mourned in this country with which he had so many associations.

CRISIS IN FRANCE

France, because of its system of government, has grown used to constitutional and governmental crises. The present one is as serious as any that has ensued for a long time, for it has aspects that are political, economic and financial. It is really a budgetary crisis. The country is faced with a deficit which may run as high as $650,000,000. To show how budgetary deficits affect a country is evidenced by the flight of gold from France, and consequence drainage of coverage for the note issues. Since May 17 gold to the value of $460,000,000 has left the country. The reserve is still great, amounting to 75,000,000,000 francs. There is, however, intense financial nervousness. The price of the franc is at issue with all that means to the immense savings of the French people.

There are those who prophesy that France can only save herself by going off the gold standard. There are others who maintain that an outcome of the present crisis will be a world conference designed to bring about stabilization of currency. It is just a question as to whether stabilization is possible at the time. British opinion is that it may have to be postponed until trade is moving more freely so as to enable international debts to be paid in goods and services. Much, however, must depend on the fiscal policy pursued by France. What is wanted in that country at the moment is stable government with the necessary powers to meet the conditions that have arisen. France, like Great Britain, before the National Government assumed power, is facing a budgetary crisis. Her remedy, like Great Britain's, lies in balanced budgets and the restoration of public confidence. If she can rise to the occasion in the same way that Great Britain did it will be an excellent thing for the economic future of the world.

It was axiomatic that the joint committee of the British Lords and Commons had to reject a petition from West Australia for leave to secede from the Australian Commonwealth. The reason of the refusal was that the British Parliament was constitutionally incompetent to take such action unless first requested by the Commonwealth Government. It would be exactly the same if any part of Canada wanted to secede from Confederation. That could only be done with the consent of the Federal Parliament.

WRITTEN IN BLOOD

Ever heard of the "Protocols of Zion?" They are probably the biggest forgery in history. Blood is spattered on every page. The "Protocols" purport to lay down the principles of a Jewish plot to dominate the world, secretly organized at a Jewish congress in 1897. The Czarists used the "Protocols" to inflame the mobs against the Jews, and Hitler recommends the study of them. The Swiss court at Berne decides that they are "ridiculous nonsense," and bans them as an offence to public morals.—London Sunday Express.

He that openly tells his friends all that he thinks of them must expect that they will secretly tell his enemies much that they do not think of him.—Colton.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

He serves his party best who serves the country best.—Hayes.

The sorry plight of the farmers is a subject of discussion on this continent. The United States Government has appropriated billions of dollars to be applied to the relief of agriculturists. The Canadian Government has spent millions of dollars to be applied to the relief of agriculturists. The Canadian Government has spent millions of dollars for the purpose of tiding the farmers—most of them prairie farmers—through their difficulties, supplying them with the necessaries of life and keeping them on the farms. Much has been said and printed about the tribulations of business, big and little. The agricultural industry is our biggest industry, and the problems of agriculturists are the most acute. So the agricultural problem is our most difficult problem, and its solution is essential to the attainment of permanent prosperity. The sympathies of governments as well as the sympathies of the individual are all on the side of the farmers. If the basic industry is to survive and ultimately flourish as of yore, something must be done for the farmers.

* * *

The agricultural business "has been in the red" for several years, and that untoward fact has engaged the attention of the Canadian Government. We do not know why, but the fact appears to be that the farming business, from a legal point of view, is on a different basis from any other business. When an ordinary business man fails, he can legally effect a composition with his creditors. The farmer who fails cannot do that, at least not in the same way. If his property is mortgaged and he fails to meet his obligations, he has to submit to being sold out. That is why the Dominion Government caused a moratorium to be passed for the relief of farmers who had mortgaged their farms and whose circumstances would not permit of the payment of either principal or interest. A tribunal was created which had the power of ordering a reduction in the amount of the mortgages and in the rates of interest chargeable.

* * *

Under the constitution of the Dominion, an inelastic instrument which also has been a subject of some acrimonious debate in these times of financial and political tribulation, it was not within the compass of the powers of the Government to adopt an agricultural moratorium which would apply to any one province. The constitution was a barrier to that. So the moratorium was made general. It applied to the province of British Columbia as well as to all the other provinces. It is not difficult to imagine what a party political furore there would have been, what a political powwow and row there would have been, had there been any discrimination against or in favor of any of the provinces. There would have arisen a wild cry about provincial rights. The resourcefulness of party politicians are illimitable and sometimes past finding out. An issue has been raised that in including British Columbia in the agricultural relief measure provincial rights have been invaded and a declaration issued that not only this measure but all other measures with like connotations must be fought all along the line and to the last ditch.

* * *

The fact has been stated on authority which is neither political nor prejudiced, that the farmers' relief measure has been of tremendous benefit to all agriculturists, and that in some of the provinces it has saved the farmers from business ruin and enabled them to continue in possession of their homesteads and in cultivation of their lands. If the moratorium has helped some of the settlers on the farms of British Columbia as it has benefited thousands of farmers in all the other provinces of Canada, surely its provisions should be welcomed by all interested in the welfare of the province. The re-establishment of business should be a matter of higher public concern than the fomentation of a political feud with the Dominion Government.

* * *

The governments of all the other provinces seem to have accepted the farmers' relief measure as a good thing in these days of agricultural stress and difficulty. Not one of the other Liberal Provincial Governments has raised the frivolous constitutional bogey. The trivial fact that the Provincial Government of British Columbia is a creditor of some settlers is not sufficient excuse for legal action to have the measure disallowed on purely technical grounds. The following editorial opinion of The Winnipeg Tribune states the facts of the case and sets them in the right perspective:

The legislation provides for the first time in the history of Canada a cheap and summary method whereby a farmer may obtain a discharge from his obligations. Canadian farmers have shown a strong desire to work their way out in fairness to their creditors as well as themselves, and this desire has been a main factor in the success of the new plan inaugurated by the Dominion Government. Experience in administering the act has shown that in a very real way creditors and debtors are desirous of assisting one another. The circumstance of being in default has tended to develop misunderstanding and illwill which are readily eliminated when the parties get together under the guidance of a conciliator.

Just Standing Around

Having observed, on various occasions and at various places, the tendency of women to pick out the busiest places on the downtown sidewalks to gather together for a little informal chat, we did a little surveying the other afternoon between Fort and Yates, on Douglas, we noticed seven groups of women impeding traffic. Two groups had baby carriages. We also discovered, quite unexpectedly, that men do not do their talking in the centre of blocks, but prefer the corners, and seem to have a distinct liking for bank corners. Look 'em over the next time you're in town on a busy day.—R. A. G.

Wanted—Ant Hills!

Dropped in at the softball game between the R. and T. Workers and Civil Service the other night at Central Park and saw something unusual. It was in the fom of a baby "anteater," the much-loved mascot of the R. and T. Workers, in other words, the longshoremen. Yes, believe it or not, one of their officials arrived at the park with the animal, a small brown colored specimen, with its tail as long as its body. It created a great deal of interest among the fans—much more than the game, which was featured by plenty of errors, many of which were due to the condition of the ground. When questioned about the creature, the tall young fellow who was guiding it with a long rope, stated it came off of one of the boats docking here from far-away ports. The "anteater" seemed at home, but there was a shortage of his favored food around.—J. D.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Bonsbees drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of June 7, 1885)

School Matters—The annual report of the school trustees will be read at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the City Hall. The nominations will be received on the following Monday, and polling, if any, on the next day.

The Electric Light—The city yesterday took over the electric light plant and paid the first instalment of the purchase money, $3,500.

Bank of British Columbia—The contract for the erection of this new building was signed by A. J. Smith, of Smith & Clark, yesterday. The contract is to be finished by November 1, and the figure is $32,350.

Falls From Roof—While working on the roof of a building on Humboldt Street on Saturday afternoon, James Maskell lost his footing and fell to the earth, a distance of twenty-six feet. He was picked up insensible. Dr. Milne, who was sent for, found no bones broken, but a severe cut on the side of the head and bruises. Mr. Maskell was taken to his home and is progressing favorably.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT

Sir,—I am sorry to intrude again so soon in your correspondence columns, but the repeated inaccuracies of R. B. D. concerning Douglas Social Credit make it difficult to hold back. For example, the statement: "Wealth and ease without labor and pleasure without exertion. Those are phantoms the Social Creditors and Communists are pursuing."

Speaking for Douglas Social Credit one can only say that such a statement is both inaccurate and absurd. Instead of calling for wealth without work, as R. B. D. mistakenly asserts, Douglas Social Credit calls for a monetary system that will correctly reflect the physical facts of the wealth that can be created as the result of our work.

Also, be it noted, that when R. B. D. says that Social Credit would confiscate "everything held in private hands," he is slandering the members of a movement that aims to remove from private hands the control of not one thing or right under the sun except the control of the issue of our money. The control of our money we propose to return to our Government, where it belongs.

We urge everyone with the intelligence to realize the importance of the problems facing the world today to discover the reasons why so many of the finest minds of Britain are now enrolled in the Douglas Social Credit movement, and suggest, as a beginning, the reading of Maurice Colbourne's grand book, "Economic Nationalism."

CRICKET AT MACDONALD PARK

Sir,—May I be permitted to add these few lines to the excellent letters that have appeared in the local press relative to motor cars being granted the small privilege of using the Macdonald Park? I happened to be over at the ground on June 3, and was much impressed by the manner in which the Victoria Club is fostering cricket in the "young idea"; it did my heart good to see at least twelve boys playing in the game. I am sure that, if owners of cars were allowed to take the same into the ground, the park would be made more popular; there is a wide stretch of rough land well off the cricket playing area to which no damage whatsoever could be done. I, therefore, respectfully suggest that the City Fathers pay a visit to the Macdonald Park; if they still refuse permission to car owners to take their vehicles into the ground I shall be very much surprised.

AT SUNSHINE INN

Sir, — I have just seen Captain Gadsden's statement in today's Colonist—that single men, eligible for relief camps, are allowed to feed at Sunshine Inn.

I am very glad to learn that that is so now. I was working at the inn at the time when the board issued the mandate barring these men from getting meals. Captain Gadsden told me himself that the reason for doing so was to insure more available jobs for married men; he also added it would lighten the burden of the city taxpayers, as the camps were under the Federal Government.

Within the last few weeks a boy asked me if he could get meals at the inn. So far he had managed to keep going on odd jobs, but needed the odd meal to tide him over the bad days. I told him to go and see, and that he would be sympathetically received. The camp strikers were refused meals. A deputation interviewed Captain Gadsden; but that is a different matter—Mayor David Leeming being a member of the board.

WATER RATES

Sir,—I think Mr. McGavin's water deal is the clear thing, not only for the small householders but for the man on the land who is trying to make an honest living for his home and family, and also to provide for others who have no land. Now the man on the land has got to pay the same rate for watering the land as he has to pay for the house, and I think it unjust. I think the City Council should set the water rates to all municipalities so the municipalities could give cheaper water rates to all, say for three months, to get over the dry spell.

RELIEF CAMP WORKERS

Sir,—All known friends who responded to the Women's League for Social Justice's appeal for funds, shoes, etc., are receiving thanks and acknowledgment from the secretary.

But there were two anonymous donators—one lady, who left a donation of $1 and a parcel in the English Bakery, and another, new leather shoes and socks at the General Warehouse. To both, heartfelt appreciation and thanks from the league and the boys are extended.

During these weeks I was in constant touch with this little band of camp boys, and they formed a community representative of all types. A few lazy, shiftless, dishonest grab-bers, but surprisingly few, if I may say so, considering the treatment meted out to them; and it was cheering to find that the majority were thoroughly nice lads, still determined to try and get jobs, which might be procurable, on their way to Ottawa. Others were going to search for work on the Mainland. Most of these boys are utterly thankful to be under the direction of people who will bother about them—can you wonder?

I was also impressed with those of their leaders who worked unselfishly and untiringly for the good of the majority, putting the needs of those under them before their own. I am speaking of the camp men, whose ability and intelligence qualified them for responsibility; but it was a heartbreaking experience, contact with these boys, for the most part homeless lads.

ROWLES' BOYS' BAND

Sir,—The "strongest chain is only as strong as its weakest link"; as, in music, "the best band is only as good as its worst player."

If we parents could only be made to realize how important it is that our children who are members of Rowles' Boys' Band should attend all practices arranged for them, we would soon have a band equal to the best in the land. The band leader would receive the encouragement due to him for his efforts and the boys an accomplishment with which they can both give and receive pleasure for the rest of their lives.

We are sure there is not another band in the world where our boys can obtain a musical education, instruments for their use as long as they are in the band, and at such small fees as required by the Rowles' Boys' Band.

The least we parents can do, in showing our appreciation of the benefits our boys receive, is to make them attend all practices, particularly when near the time for important occasions, as the Musical Festival in which they took part.

Perfection is made up of little insignificant items, yet perfection itself is so great. Let us remember this and in future do better by the band and the practicing, and, as naturally follows, "our boys."

THE THRONE OF DAVID

Sir,—In relation to Mr. Green's further attack on British-Israel and the throne of David, I would like to say that his line of argument would make it seem that he doubts the Virgin birth, because if, as he contends, the "seed" came through Jehoiachin and Joseph, Christ would not be born of a Virgin. Furthermore, it would disannul God's Word through Jeremiah that Jehoiachin's seed should not inherit the throne of David. Therefore, logically, Mr. Green's contentions are absolutely illogical and erroneous.

To my mind, it is reasoning of this order that has given rise to so many sects in Christendom.

British-Israel is not a sect. We include thinking people of every denomination, and thus gain combined knowledge and strength.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

ESTABLISHING A TENACE

There is a situation in the play which all players should learn to recognize. It is not uncommon, yet very few players take advantage of it.

The situation of which I speak is when it is possible to lead an honor toward a weak suit in dummy, and by such a lead to establish a tenace over dummy's highest card.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A 10 4 3 ♥ A K 6 5 2 ♦ K ♣ A J 5
♠ K ♥ Q J 8 3 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ Q 10 7 6 4	N W E S	♠ 9 8 7 6 5 2 ♥ 7 ♦ J 8 6 4 ♣ K 8

Pass	4♥ (4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. Even with a five-card biddable suit, the one-no trump response is preferred on hands containing less than two honor tricks. In the new Culbertson system a suit response is forcing for one round, and must not be made without some strength or at least a six-card suit.

2. A very strong bid, for it denotes willingness to play at three hearts, no matter how weak South may be.

3. Not a raise, but a preference bid. North having bid two suits, South shows the suit in which he is stronger.

4. North is strong enough to bid for game, even though South has shown no more strength than about one honor trick.

THE PLAY

East opened a low spade; West's king fell to North's ace. North next cashed the king of diamonds, then led a spade, hoping for entry to dummy. But West ruffed.

West then made the play necessary to defeat the contract; he led the ten of clubs—not a low club. North played the jack; but East won with the king and returned the eight of clubs, and West had a tenace over dummy's nine. West thus established a second trick in clubs, and it was impossible for North to enter dummy and discard his loser on the ace of diamonds.

Had West led simply his fourth best club, as many players would have done, North would have played the five-spot. East could not have won over dummy's nine without playing his king, and North would have had ace-jack over West's queen.

Vital Problems Are Awaiting Solution By Youth of Today

Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, Addresses Provincial Normal School Students at Closing Banquet—Associations Enjoyed

WITH the admonition that they should couple with idealism a practical intelligence, and the cultivation of those powers of observation that keep one in touch with the realities of life, the Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, delivered some sound advice to the eighty Provincial Normal School students, gathered at the Mount Tolmie institution last evening for the annual banquet marking the end of the class year.

In every detail the affair carried out the fine traditions that have gradually evolved after a score of years. The big assembly hall, one of the most artistically designed in the city, was arranged in the customary way, the long table on the north side, decked with bowls of pink, red and white roses, interspersed with mauve and green tapers, accommodating the thirty or more special guests, while shorter tables set at right angles thereto, and decorated with vases of yellow iris, nepeta and sweet peas, accommodated the students. Attractive place cards, painted by members of the art classes of the school, marked the guests' places at the head table. The serving was expertly done by a corps of girls from the First United Church, under Mrs. Christie's direction.

TOASTS AND MUSIC

The programme followed the usual lines, with toasts and music. V. L. Denton, principal of the Normal School, presided. Following the toast to "The King," there were toasts to "The Department of Education," proposed by Arthur Hawkes, representing the student body, and responded to by Hon. Dr. Weir; to "The Critic Teachers, the Faculty, and Our Guests," proposed by Miss D. Creelman, one of the students, and responded to by W. H. Muncy, principal of North Ward School, and by H. L. Campbell, of the Normal School teaching staff.

The two principal features in the musical programme were the Hebridean "Eriskay Love Song," charmingly sung by the girl students' choir, and the men students' well-harmonized singing of Werner's "Two Red Roses," unaccompanied. F. T. C. Wickett, instructor of music at the Normal School, conducted the choirs in each instance, Miss M. Somerville being at the piano.

FREE EDUCATION

After Principal V. L. Denton's brief address, in which he referred to the pleasant associations of the staff and students during the past year, Arthur Hawkes proposed the toast to the Department of Education by referring to the personnel of that body, including the Hon. Dr. Weir, Dr. S. J. Willis, D. L. Maclaurin, and the registrar, Mr. Watson. Not one of these was a mere figurehead; each was fully aware of the problems, as well as the ideals, of education, and was working toward the solution of the former and the realization of the latter.

"The Normal School is another part of the social service sometimes ironically called 'free education,'" noted this speaker, who commented on the liberal-minded attitude of the department in its evident anxiety to institute changes and improvements in the curriculum.

NOT PERFECT

In his response, Dr. Weir concurred with the previous speaker in his view that the educational system was not by any means perfect. Students laughingly appreciated the Minister of Education's humorous suggestion that a step toward perfection might be made by superannuating all teachers over forty-five years of age, thus making jobs available for the young men and women just leaving the Normal.

Youth today had the challenge of great problems to solve, social, economic, and spiritual. At one time teachers were not supposed to take an active part in public life; but things had changed, and it was gratifying to find men from the schools coming out and taking a part in the discussion of some of these vital problems.

"You need 60 per cent philosophy and 40 per cent humor to face some of the situations with which you will be confronted," he told his listeners. Each and all were missionaries of a new social order, and must remember that they could achieve nothing toward this end by substitute thinking, or by a narrow parochialism. The intolerance of youth was as much to be guarded against as the intolerance of old age. Let them keep an open mind, be investigators and students all their lives.

Miss Creelman pithily summarized the attributes of each member of the staff, paying appreciative tribute to all; and the responses by W. H. Muncy and H. L. Campbell were congratulatory and witty.

Parson — How did you get that black eye, Mrs. Higgins?

Mrs. Higgins—Well, sir, me 'usband came out of prison on 'is birthday.

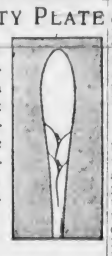

Parson—Yes?

Mrs. Higgins—And I wished 'im many 'appy returns.

MUST COMPLETE PRISON TERMS

Mainland Prisoners Gain Nothing by Representations To Court of Appeal

Two prisoners, Roy Miller and R. Macdonald, who came over from the Mainland to seek consideration from the British Columbia Court of Appeal, had their cases under review yesterday without gaining any advantage in the matter of conviction or sentence. Both appeals were from convictions of Police Magistrate H. S. Wood.

Macdonald appeared before Mr. Justice Martin in chambers before the court opened in the morning, and entered his grounds for appeal from a sentence of one year on a charge of theft. His application was refused by His Lordship after hearing the representations.

In the case of Miller, the accused appeared before Mr. Justice Martin in chambers, following the rising of the court for lunch, when His Lordship heard the representations made by the convicted man as to the sentence imposed. He had been sentenced to three years for theft of jewelry.

HAD BAD RECORD

With seven previous convictions, including theft, breaking and entering, carrying concealed weapons, etc., His Lordship felt that a record of that kind for a man as young as he was would not justify altering the sentence imposed by the court below.

Later, when court assembled at 2:15 o'clock, the accused appeared before the members of the court with an appeal against the conviction. He claimed that his case was not handled well, as he said he felt he could prove that his lawyer was intoxicated. He objected to the evidence of Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance as to the glass found in his clothing, which was alleged to be the same as the store window broken. The clothes had been a considerable time in possession of the police before being turned over to the inspector. His lawyer, against his advice, had said that undoubtedly he (the prisoner) had done the act.

The appeal was dismissed by the court.

WINS FIRST YACHT RACE

Yankee Headed Velsheda by Thirteen Minutes—Estra Lost Man

SOUTHEND, England, June 6 (AP).—The Boston yacht Yankee today emerged from uncertain weather conditions and changed race provisions to be declared the winner in her official racing debut in British waters.

Officials awarded the race to Yankee in one hour, forty-six minutes, twenty-five seconds, with Velsheda second, thirteen minutes behind.

In a confusing race during which T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavor, unsuccessful America's Cup challenger, lost her mast and Astra lost one of her crew who was washed overboard and drowned, Yankee won the victory after the course had been shortened to one, instead of two laps.

WAGE INCREASES FOR EMPLOYEES

Saanich Municipality Truck Drivers to Receive Additional Amount, Council Decrees

Small wage increases for truck drivers and longer working hours for straw bosses at a slightly lower wage were approved by the Saanich Council last night.

In future, municipal truck drivers will receive $3.75 per day, an increase of 25 cents per day over the former scale. Drivers will work longer hours under the scheme approved by the council.

A similar wage rate will be paid straw bosses, who had received $4 per day before. However, under the previous scale, working days had been cut considerably. With the lower wage men will be employed for longer periods.

The scale will be permanent, it was decided.

OTHER BUSINESS

Other business transacted included:

Payment of $1,237.50 to the Board of Cemetery Trustees of Greater Victoria to care for a $2,475 deficit on Royal Oak Burial Park needed to meet interest on bonds, due July 1. The other half of the deficit will be supplied by the city. Thirty-five ratepayers petitioned the council for repair work to Blenkinsop Road.

General and relief accounts totaling $6,492 were authorized. A lower bus rate from the city to Mount Douglas Park will be sought by Councillor A. G. Lambrick and Clerk R. R. F. Sewell. Under the present arrangement fares are the same between the city and the park, and the city and Cordova Bay.

Reeve William Crouch was reappointed Saanich representative on the Jubilee Hospital board of directors. Reeve Crouch, Councillor Fred Borden and Engineer H. H. Allen will meet city and Oak Bay officials shortly to consider a draining scheme for the Bowker Creek section.

Obituary

ROSS—Rev. James Hood officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Mary Ross yesterday afternoon, at which many sorrowing friends were present. The hymns sung were "O Love, That Will Not Let Me Go" and "Lead, Kindly Light." The casket and hearse were covered with beautiful floral tributes. The following were pallbearers: F. Pearce, Harry Davis, Walter Davis, John Cameron, William Sharcott and C. G. Williams. The remains were laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

ERIKSON—Funeral service for the late Mrs. Johanna Erickson was held yesterday afternoon. Relatives and a very large gathering of friends attended the impressive service conducted by Rev. James Hyde. Many beautiful floral wreaths and sprays bore testimony to the high esteem in which Mrs. Erikson was held. The hymns sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Abide With Me." The pallbearers were H. L. S. Blake, R. Main, D. Stewart, D. Smith, E. Clapham and A. Armstrong. Interment took place in Colwood Burial Park.

ALDRIDGE—Mrs. Lillian Ethel Aldridge, widow of Herbert Aldridge, passed away yesterday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Mrs. Aldridge was born in Blackheath, Kent, England, on June 10, 1870, and had made her home on McTavish Road, North Saanich, since she first came to the city in 1911. She was an active worker in Christ Church Cathedral Guild and during the Great War was Fairfield convener of the Red Cross. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. W. Hammond, Sidney, and Miss Joyce Aldridge, and one son, John H., of Trail. The remains are resting in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. The funeral will be held tomorrow, the cortege leaving the chapel at 2 o'clock, proceeding to Christ Church Cathedral, where Very Rev. C. S. Quainton will officiate, assisted by Rev. J. S. A. Bastin, at 2:15 o'clock. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Relief Men Are Fully Protected

Saanich now carries complete insurance coverage on all relief men riding on municipal trucks, before and after working hours, the council was informed last night.

Municipal Clerk R. R. F. Sewell introduced policies, which cost but $22.50, and which completely covered all six municipal trucks. This action was taken following investigation at a previous council session.

Esquimalt Woman Seriously Burned In Kitchen Blaze

Mrs. W. Wiberg, Esquimalt, who was severely burned late Tuesday afternoon by boiling liquid spilled from a preserving kettle, was reported resting easily in the Jubilee Hospital last night.

Mrs. Wiberg, who lives near the Rosebank Lime Company's plant, was canning fruit, and when she attempted to lift a kettle of boiling liquid from a stove, it slipped and spilled the contents on her clothing. The heat from the stove set fire to the liquid and Mrs. Wiberg ran a considerable distance to the beach before she was able to extinguish the flames. Parts of her body were severely burned and she was taken care of by nearby neighbors until the arrival of Provincial Police officers, who had her removed to the hospital, where she was attended by Dr. W. J. Endicott.

Before her removal to hospital, first aid was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Walker and greatly relieved the pain and shock from the burns.

Teacher—Tommy, where was the American Declaration of Independence signed?

Tommy—At the bottom, I guess.

The 10th of the Month is Their Pay Day---

You may be an employer—or an employee. In either case you know the meaning of "pay day"!

RUNNING a business is like running a household: Current income must be depended upon to meet current expenses. Help must be paid regularly. Materials purchased must be paid for according to terms. Rent, light and other bills must be paid when due.

The merchant, the physician, the dentist —all credit granters—in order to meet their obligations, must insist on prompt payment of their accounts in accordance with standard terms.

Each month's charges are due on the first of the following month and payable not later than the 10th. The 10th, by courtesy, is the final date for payment—after that, bills are considered delinquent.

You are their paymaster! Prompt payment of their accounts will enable them (and their creditors in turn) to pay their bills promptly. Everyone will benefit, including yourself — for paying bills promptly builds a good credit record.

WATER RATE UNCHANGED

Saanich Not to Cut Assessment During Summer, Council Decides

There will be no decrease in water rates in Saanich during the Summer months, the municipal council decided last night. However, as the present agreement with the city expires March 31, 1936, the council intimated it would seek a generally lower rate at that time.

Councillor W. R. Woods suggested that the city be asked to cut the Saanich assessment from seven cents per thousand gallons to four cents per 100 cubic feet or 625 gallons, the rate allowed certain golf courses under a recent scheme brought down by the civic water board. The saving could be passed to small farmers and landowners, contended Councillor Woods.

TO SEEK DECREASE

Reeve Crouch said this was impossible at this time. He indicated, however, that lower rates will be sought from the city when a new agreement is discussed. Under the contract, an appeal to a board of arbitration is allowed six months prior to the termination of the agreement, it was pointed out.

The minimum rate in Saanich now is $1.82 per month for $3,000 gallons or part of that quantity. All costs 25 cents per 1,000 gallons, while above 5,000 gallons meets anassessment of fifteen cents per 1,000 gallons. For irrigation purposes all water over 20,000 gallons per month costs ten cents per 1,000 gallons. There is a 10 per cent discount on all bills paid within fifteen days after they fall due.

Neighbor: "Say, have you folks got a bottle opener around here?"

Parent: "Yeah, but he's away at college."

The great distinction between electrolysis and all other treatments for the removal of superfluous hair is that it is absolutely sure and permanently destroys the hair instead of temporarily removing it from the surface, and the pain is just the ordinary stinging sensation peculiar to all electrical treatments. Chapter Hears Address On History of Dawson

Mrs. F. G. Berton Addresses Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E.—Much Routine Business Dealt With by Members

Mrs. F. G. Berton was the guest speaker for the Empire subject at the regular meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, held yesterday at headquarters.

The subject which was ably dealt with, was "Dawson—From the Early Gold-Rush Days Until the Present Day."

The speaker carried her listeners by imagination—by boat to Skagway—then over the Coast Range—where the ascent rises 3,000 feet in the space of twenty miles—with three engines pulling the train bearing its cargo of prospectors and supplies to Dawson, the Mecca of the gold seekers.

"From May until August there is no darkness in Dawson," the speaker commented, "midnight excursions are quite the usual pastime, and writing, sewing and gardening can be indulged in as easily at 2 a.m. as during the noon hour.

RAPID GROWTH

"Like all extremely cold locations, Dawson and environs have extraordinarily rapid growth of vegetation. Pansies often grow to the size of four inches across, asters as large as chrysanthemums, and at one exhibition, held a few years ago, one cabbage grew to the weight of fifty pounds." The speaker, who had great success with growing cauliflower, found a ready market at 75c per head to the local grocers.

"Potatoes, being of longer growth, were harder to raise in the Yukon—a steady price of 10c a pound being charged all the year round. Oranges retailed at from $1 to $3 a dozen; apples, $1 a dozen, and eggs, storage at that, were $3 per dozen.

"Christmas turkeys were a costly luxury in the Yukon, 95c a pound being paid cheerfully for them—even if they were frozen assets—newspapers cost 25c each; bread, 25c a loaf; water had to be peddled from door to door, and $6 a month was usually the contract price for which a family will be kept supplied with this necessary commodity.

MINES BEING WORKED

"Dawson City in the early mining days had a population of 30,000; now there are only 800 inhabitants.

After forty years' continuous working, it is estimated there are millions in gold yet to be secured in that far Northern country. Silver mines, unless they produce $100 to the ton are not thought worth working, the handling of the material being so costly. Since silver has advanced, some of the Dawson mines and on the Stewart River are receiving extra attention, so rich is the Yukon in silver and gold.

"With such a shrinkage in population many stores and hotels are now empty; but the ever-popular dance still reigns supreme for entertainment. Everyone dances in Dawson City, and the Anglican archbishop, Roman Catholic fathers and United Church ministers all join with the fun-makers and bring a spirit of wholesome mirth to the dance," she stated.

The speaker was heartily thanked for her interesting talk, this being the first Empire talk presented to the chapter for this year.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

Letters have been recived by the chapter from Mr. W. H. Wilson, of Sir James Douglas School, and A. H. Bachman, of Willow Brook School at Bessborough, B.C., thanking the chapter for Jubilee copies of The Illustrated London News and a library of books.

It was decided at this meeting to pay rent to Municipal Chapter and donations to Red Cross work, Rainbow Sea Cadets, soldier's graves, Girl Guides every three months instead of each month, as formerly.

Mrs. Colin Cummins, the regent, commended the chapter for their attendance at the intercession service, Jubilee and King's accession celebration and luncheon held by the Municipal Chapter.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Shaw, the treasurer, for several copies of the prayer as passed by the Provincial Chapter.

Great satisfaction was expressed when Miss Josephine Crease reported that Mrs. Corby, the delegate to the National meeting recently held in Ottawa, had informed her that the resolution, re primary chapters was passed, the new ruling applying only from June 1 of this year.

A donation with which to assist in the rehabilitating of a family in England, who has recently left Victoria, was unanimously passed.

REPORTS PASSED

The secretary read the Y.W.C.A. travelers' aid report, and Mrs. Pillar, educational secretary, presented her report.

Mrs. Bertha Parsons and Mrs. Ada Matheson were appointed the tag-day conveners for Alexandra Rose Day on June 22.

Dawson City has a flourishing I.O.D.E., and Mrs. Harry Osborne, their regent, has recently been made a member of the Order of the British Empire, Mrs. Berton reported.

Miss Lee was appointed Girl Guide convener, and Mrs. Colin Cummins reported having received an acknowledgment from Lady Bessborough, for the chapter's donation to the Cancer Research Fund.

The regent and Miss Crease paid high tribute to Miss A. B. Cooke, educational secretary, who has found it impossible to continue in office due to the Provincial headquarters being moved to Vancouver.

The chapter will meet again in September.

Artist Has Success in Exhibition

His numerous friends here will be pleased to learn of the success that Llewellyn Petley Jones, an Edmonton artist, who has several times visited Victoria, is enjoying in London, England, where he has been studying since October last.

This year he has had a water-color accepted by the Royal Academy, a picture entitled "Seba," which was exhibited at the local Arts and Crafts exhibition in the Fall of 1933. The London Observer, in its review of the Academy water-colors, mentioned this picture among the ten only that were given any notice.

Another flattering recognition received by this gifted young Canadian artist was the acceptance of his oil-color, "Canadian Trapper," by the Royal Society of British Artists, which has had it hung in its collection.

Organist Will Give Recital Next Monday

Music lovers in the city will welcome the opportunity of hearing one of Canada's outstanding recitalists next Monday evening.

Richard Tattersall, organist of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, who will be in the city conducting examinations on behalf of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, has kindly consented to give an organ recital in the First United Church on this occasion. Arrangements have been made for him to appear under the auspices of the church choir.

The public is cordially invited to attend this great musical treat, as Mr. Tattersall is recognized as a master of the organ and a superb player of Bach. Last February he gave, in Toronto, a Bach programme in commemoration of the birth of the great composer, the items including the famous "Passacaglia."

The recital will commence at 8 p.m. There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken to defray expenses.

TRADE BOARD WILL BE ESTABLISHED

may establish commodity standards and grades and enforce the compliance of distributors with such regulations. As an identification of commodities which have conformed with all regulations laid down by the commission, a new national trademark, "Canada Standard," will officially come into use, and drastic penalties are provided for its misuse.

The act, if passed, will come into operation on October 1, 1935.

Wide powers are given the commission to investigate and report on all complaints of unfair practice or violations of any of the numerous statutes which are designed to guarantee fair treatment of both producers and consumers. It is instructed by the act to confer with representatives of industries for the purpose of considering prevailing commercial practices and determining what is fair and what is unfair.

NEW STOCK ISSUES

An important function of the commission will be to pass upon new stock and securities issues before they are offered to the public, when invited to do so by the Secretary of State, and drastic penalties are provided for offering such securities before the requirements of the commission have been complied with. Nor may the issuer of such securities advertise the fact that they have been either approved or dealt with by the commission.

The commission will be responsible only to the president of the King's Privy Council in Canada (the Prime Minister).

Under the superintendence of the Minister of Justice, the duties of a director of public prosecutions to be appointed under the bill shall be:

"(a) To institute, undertake or carry on, at the instance of the Attorney-General of Canada or the commission, criminal proceedings for violation of any of the laws prohibiting unfair trade practices in cases which appear to be of importance or difficult, or in which special circumstances or the refusal or failure of any other person to institute, undertake or carry on such proceedings appear to render the action of such director necessary to secure due prosecution of an offender.

TO AID PROVINCES

"(b) To give such advice or assistance to the Attorney-General of any province in connection with the prosecution of offenders against prohibiting unfair trade practices as appears necessary to secure prosecution of such offenders.

"(c) To assist the commission in the conduct of any investigation where it is alleged or complained that an offence against any of the laws prohibiting unfair trade practices has been or is likely to be committed."

The commission will have power to confer with representatives of industry for the purpose of considering commercial practices and determining what practices are to be deemed unfair or undesirable in the interest of the industry or certain individuals, or the general public. Opinions reached at such conferences may be published. Authority is given for the commission to co-operate with boards of trade or similar bodies in arriving at commercial arbitrations.

Co-operation with the Economic Council of Canada also may be ordered by the Governor-in-Council for the purpose of studying and reporting upon general social and economic trends, or any social or economic problem.

COMPANY STRUCTURES

Whenever the Secretary of State may desire it, the commission shall investigate and review the capital structure of any company, incorporated by or under any act of Parliament, proposing to issue new shares, debentures or other securities to the public.

No issue of such securities may be offered the public until the commission is satisfied, and while the commission may disapprove or reject proposed issues it may not give formal approval. For any person to publish that an issue of securities has the approval or otherwise of the commission or to sell without compliance with this act will be punishable by a fine of $1,000 and three months' imprisonment.

VANCOUVER ISLAND RETARDED BY DEBTS

that the West Coast highway loop from Victoria will be constructed. Faith has not been kept. The road has not yet reached Port Renfrew.

Repeated attempts have been made in the last thirty years to have the given word of Government implemented by construction of a road from Campbell River to Sayward. The work has not been started. Settlers were induced to enter the Salmon Valley on the understanding that their community of Sayward would be connected with the Vancouver Island highway system.

WORK NOT STARTED

There have been many attempts made to link Alberni with Courtenay and Cumberland by a road that would open up a veritable wonderland to tourists. It has not been started.

Strathcona Park is one of the nation's finest Alpine playgrounds. It was set aside for development many years ago. It has not been opened to travel that would repay expenditures made upon its development.

During the years that residents of Vancouver Island have been urging these and many other justifiable developments without impressing upon the authorities the value of their construction, millions upon millions have been expended on the Mainland; and a burden of debt has been fastened upon the province that makes it difficult indeed to carry on. The tens of millions of dollars poured into the Pacific Great Eastern account illustrates the point. If even half of the waste on construction of that railway had been used in the betterment of Vancouver Island highways the condition of the Island and of the province generally would be better today.

ISLAND MUST PAY

British Columbia will eventually have to assume a staggering loss on account of that line—and Vancouver Island taxpayers will have to dig up one-third of the money. It is probable that this Island will have to pay at least $10,000,000 as its contribution to the province's adventure into the field of public ownership of railways.

Experience of the neglect of Vancouver Island's interests gives rise to the question: "How long can such a condition continue?" Again, the answer of experience suggests that it will be "just as long as Vancouver Island neglects to develop an Island consciousness, and determination to work unitedly for attainment of a definite plan of development."

Is such a programme necessary? Has Vancouver Island really been deprived of legitimate expenditures? Such are matters that should be coolly and calmly considered. These are difficult times for Government. No person will deny that fact. British Columbia is today carrying a tremendously heavy load of public debt, demanding heavy annual charges, and steadily increasing in size and yearly carrying commitments. It would therefore be more just to consider expenditure on capital account prior to the depression.

SPENT FOR WHAT?

In 1916 the public debt of British Columbia was, in round figures, $19,000,000; in 1930 it was $102,000,000. This meant an increase in fifteen years of $81,000,000. Most of it was on capital account. In those fifteen years were there $20,000,000 expended on Vancouver Island? Were there $15,000,000 expended here on public works and improvements? What proportion of that $81,000,000 went to improve Vancouver Island? That is something that has never been divulged, but those who are conversant with the improvements made in that period prior to the depression will not hesitate to state that the proportion of the public debt represented by capital expenditure then (or now) on Vancouver Island is small indeed. But Vancouver Island citizens have to provide a substantial part of the cost of those borrowings. It has been stated that this Island provides one-third of the revenues collected in the Province. What commensurate benefits have been received?

This condition has existed for decades and it will continue unless there is a new deal for the Island; unless there is a definite programme of development, and unless that programme is adhered to strictly.

ATTITUDE IN U.S. CHANGES

R. H. B. Ker Finds President Roosevelt Is Losing Support in Mid-West

As a result of the recent meat shortage in the United States, the people of the Middle Western States are strongly criticizing the Roosevelt Administration for its policy of slaughtering millions of hogs several years ago, R. H. B. Ker, Victoria businessman, stated yesterday after returning from an automobile trip through ten states.

Accompanied by Mrs. Ker, Mr. Ker went to Toronto by train, and returned by automobile, driving some 4,000 miles in the United States during the course of four weeks.

President Roosevelt has apparently lost many supporters in the United States in recent months, Mr. Ker found.

MET AMOS 'N' ANDY

From Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Ker drove to Chicago, where they met their friend, Bill Hay, famed announcer of the Amon 'n' Andy radio programme, and were introduced to the famous black-face comedians of the air. During their five-day visit in Chicago they visited the National Broadcasting Company's studios and sat in on a broadcast of the "First Nighter" programme.

Mr. Ker was much taken with the splendid condition of the highways in the South, and spoke of the ingenious system used for earing for traffic in all cities, large and small. The travelers drove west over the Lincoln, or No. 30, Highway, passing through Omaha, Des Moines, North Platte, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone National Park and up to Seattle.

CROSS-CANADA HIGHWAY

In Mr. Ker's opinion, unless Canada soon builds a hard-surface cross-Canada highway, more Canadian tourist dollars will go into the United States than United States dollars come into Canada.

In nine of the ten states through which Mr. and Mrs. Ker passed, retail sales taxes ranging between 2 and 3 cents on every purchase were charged. As retail sales taxes are apparently general in the United States, Mr. Ker said, there seemed to be no objection to them.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

A SLOW-EMPTYING STOMACH MAY CAUSE LACK OF APPETITE

Mothers often wonder why their youngster has such a poor appetite. They try to give him the foods he likes, but still often find it necessary to coax him to eat. Thus we find parents promising rewards for eating a certain amount of food and sometimes punishments if food is not eaten.

Now, there may be one or more reasons why youngsters have a poor appetite, and one of the reasons may be that the youngster has a slow-emptying stomach; that is, some of the food of the previous meal may be in the stomach when the parent is trying to get him to eat. Naturally he has no appetite, and the less inclined he is to eat the more the parent tries to "stuff" food into him.

Thus Dr. E. Hahnss, Stuttgart, thinks that in children with lack of appetite, the stomach itself is not given enough attention by the parents and physicians, and that the time it takes for a meal to be well mixed with the stomach juices should be measured.

Bismuth paste has been used to make this test, but Dr Hahnss points out that children dislike the taste of bismuth and that milk, which children like, will answer the purpose just as well in showing the action of the stomach walls and the length of time it takes to get the milk completely out of the stomach into the small intestine. He has the youngster take from two to ten ounces of milk and finds that in normal children the stomach will get rid of these amounts in from two to three hours, whereas in children with a poor appetite, the stomach may be partly filled at the end of two or three hours.

Naturally more food going into a stomach that already has food in process of digestion will cause a disturbance. Dr. Hahnss suggests that the food should be of the kind that is easily digested—liquid foods, finely divided or soft foods, foods that have to be chewed well, such as crackers or dry toast. He suggests also that allowance should be made for this slow emptying of the stomach; that is, the meals should be spread well apart (at first six hours and later four hours). After the meal the child should rest so as not to burden the slow-emptying stomach by the weight of the food in it.

The thought, then, when there is lack of appetite is to remember that it may be due to a slow-emptying stomach.

NEW OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

Herbert J. Pendray Rotary Club President—J. Morse Hatt Is Honored

Victoria Rotary Club installed its newly-elected officers at luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday and presented J. Morse Hatt, retiring president, with a past president's button in appreciation of his untiring efforts during the last twelve months.

Following his installation, the new president, Herbert J. Pendray, paid honor to the retiring board, and in outlining his plans for the coming year, asked the members to be prepared to sit down to luncheons every Thursday at 12.10 p.m. Mr. Pendray also called on the existing committees to carry on until September.

NEW OFFICERS

S. M. Armstrong officiated as installing officer. The new club officers are: Mr. Pendray, president; E. R. Coates and Dr. V. B. Taylor, vice-presidents; F. M. Shandley, treasurer; Frank Turley, sergeant-at-arms, and T. J. Goodlake, J. V. Johnson and E. W. McMullen, directors. To represent Mr. Coates, Dr. Taylor and Mr. McMullen, who were absent from the meeting, J. V. Maynard, Jr., Walter Fletcher and W. A. Jameson participated in the installation ceremonies.

Support of the entire club was pledged for the coming year to President Pendray and his board by Mr. Armstrong.

ACTIVE YEAR

Victoria Rotary Club had an active year, the annual report as read by T. P. McConnell, secretary, showed. The twelfth annual Rotary seed-growing contest was beneficial to many children, and the winners won additional honors with their seeds in the Vancouver exhibition.

Good work was done by the boys' work committee, under the leadership of Frank Turley and Frank Shandley, it was reported.

Reference was made to the successful theatrical revue put on several months ago.

Membership stands at ninety-eight, equal to that of last year.

DEPARTED ROTARIANS

Mention was also made of the death of Rotarians Frank H. Kidd, Thomas Walker, Albert Maynard and Percy Watson. It was stated Mr. Watson had a record of continuous attendance at Rotary meetings for twelve and a half years and was an ardent worker.

Expressions of appreciation of the club's orchestra were voiced during the meeting and special thanks were tendered to Alfred Prescott, conductor.

Winner of the club's golf tournament on Wednesday, Goldwin Terry was presented with a trophy and six golf balls. Jack Land received second place honors, and Alex Glenday was presented with a special prize.

Welsh Society to Meet This Evening

"The Destiny of Anglo-Saxondom in the Coming Crisis" will be the subject of an address by Rev. Dr. Clem Davies tonight at the general meeting of the Victoria Welsh Society, in the S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street, at 8 o'clock.

The following artists, several of whom were contestants in the recent Musical Festival, will contribute to the entertainment: Miss Gladys Kinsey, Mr. C. Finnimore, Miss Lillian Williams, Gwyneth Evans, Marjorie Kinsey, Mr. George Tait, Miss Janet Hay, Miss Celia Lewis and Mr. David Evans. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone interested. Refreshments will be served and the ladies are requested to bring cakes or sandwiches.

What Today Means

"GEMINI"

If June 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p.m., and from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 6:15 p.m., and from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

It will be wise to go out of your way to avoid quarrelling on June 7, as the loss by indulging in it will be greater than any possible gain. Be tactful in saying anything of an unpleasant nature. Should you have any instructions to give, or repeat, be most explicit, leaving nothing to the imagination, so as to prevent the possibility of a misunderstanding. In the realm of the business world, influences are likely to make outside of office activities more productive than inside work. Social affairs of the conventional type will probably meet with greater success than those attempted along pretentious lines requiring lavish expenditures. Married and engaged couples, as well as those anxious to ask the momentous question, should be careful to regulate all their actions with discretion on this date, as a disregard of it is liable to lead to complications.

If a woman and June 7 is your birthday you are inclined to judge people and things in general, by outward or external appearances. If you will strive to get a clearer, as well as a more profound intellectual understanding of life as a whole, your progress forward will be rapid. Avoid being interested only in obtaining a general effect, instead of a real depth of beauty or substantial affect. You will probably have a great deal of good fortune befall you, and your problems will in all likelihood become easily solved. Teaching, music, clerical or secretarial, as well as dramatic and concert work, are possible mediums through which congenial employment may be found by you. You should find a great deal of happiness through wifehood.

The child born on June 7 may, when it reaches its teens, be rather inclined to want its own way. Possessing a high degree of intelligence, tactful persuasion will be all that is necessary to enable it to see the right course to take.

If a man and June 7 is your natal day, if you will build firmly and well, you will succeed. The most important thing for you to guard against is a tendency to be impatient. The pulpit, stage, lecture platform, railroading, engineering, geology, as well as salesmanship, offer a man of your versatility ample scope for an advantageous display of your ability.

Radio Programmes

Summary of Schedule of Victoria and Other Pacific Coast Stations

TODAY

5 p.m.—Fanny Brice, famous Hebrew comedienne, will be co-starred with Beatrice Lillie on the latter's N.B.C. programme with Lee Perrin's Orchestra. It is expected Miss Brice will offer one of her uproariously-funny monologues and sing a chorus or two of "Rose of Washington Square," the tune which made her famous, KOMO.

5 p.m.—A complete radio adaptation of the new musical picture, "In Caliente," with Dolores Del Rio, Pat O'Brien, and Edward Everett Horton appearing in their original roles, will be the "preview" highlight of Dick Powell's weekly "Hollywood Hotel" programme. Powell will broadcast from New York, where he is at present. Leo Carrillo will be master of ceremonies and Phil Regan, Columbia's "singing cop," will also be heard. KOL, KVI, KSL.

6:30 p.m.—As the mighty hand organ grinds out the tune "I Love Coffee, I Love Tea," Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle and Budd, plus several "phoithbolnders," will face microphones in a programme over the Columbia network, dedicated to demented control engineers and patient listeners. KOL, KVI, KSL.

FARMERS LEARN OF SWEDISH HOGS

QUALICUM BEACH, June 6.—The Qualicum Beach District Farmers' Institute held their monthly meeting on Monday at the home of Gilbert Mant, President C. G. Golding in the chair.

Some interesting correspondence was read. The Dominion Experimental Farm announced the arrival of a shipment of Swedish Landrace hogs to Canada, but before there can be any distribution of them, it is essential that they be tried out thoroughly in order to determine if they will prove suitable under Canadian climatic conditions. Further, it will be necessary to determine if Canadian feeds commonly used will be suitable for this breed of hogs.

Therefore, no distribution will be made for a year or two at least.

The rearrangement of the district road repairs, dividing the work to be done by two gangs of men, under two foremen, was discussed.

F. Napier Denison Revellers' Guest At Club Meeting

F. Napier Denison, director of the Gonzales Meteorological Observatory here, was the guest speaker at the Revellers Club at a dinner meeting in Speedie's Cafe, Wednesday night. He told the members about earthquakes, the method of recording the disturbances at the Observatory, and the system of co-ordinating data by co-operation with other observatories in the Dominion. Since the Observatory was established here, a total of 4,500 disturbances had been recorded on the seismograph, he said.

The Revellers will take care of the transportation by bus of one group of children to Sunshine Camp and return. Final arrangements were made for the flannel dance to be held at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on June 14, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the annual tennis tournament to be held on July 6. T. A. Stevenson, president, presided at the meeting and welcomed Ronald Kirchener as a new member.

HUMOR, ROMANCE AT THE DOMINION

Guy Kibbee Plays Leading Role, With Aline MacMahon in "Mary Jane's Pa"—Fine Story

Rollicking humor, pathos, fast and intense dramatic action, romance—all are said to be contained in the Warner Bros. production, "Mary Jane's Pa," which comes to the Dominion Theatre today, with that inimitable team of screen players, Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee in the stellar roles.

Kibbee plays the part of a tramp printer, born with wanderlust in his heart. A small town publisher, he leaves what he thinks is a competence to his wife and two small children, hops a freight at night and disappears.

Finally, after many years, he returns to his home town to find the printing office closed and his family gone, no one knows where.

He goes from town to town searching for his wife and children, and eventually comes on a little lost girl and takes her home to discover she is his own child. But his wife is running another paper and is interested in another man and in politics.

Aline McMahon has the role of the wife. She permits her husband to stay in the house incognito as the general housekeeper after he pleads to remain with his children.

Following many intensely dramatic situations the story closes in a most touching and surprising climax.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Claudette Colbert in "Private Worlds."
Columbia—"Igloo," an Eskimo film.
Dominion — Guy Kibbee in "Mary Jane's Pa."
Playhouse—Anne Shirley in "Anne of Green Gables."

CAPITOL THEATRE The story of a woman who knew all about love in others' lives, but feared it herself, Paramount's "Private Worlds" is now at the Capitol Theatre and stars glamorous Claudette Colbert with Charles Boyer and Jean Bennett. A dramatic picture of the impulses behind love, "Private Worlds" presents Miss Colbert as a female doctor in the unusual setting of a hospital for the insane. With extraordinary insight into the tragedies which have driven others insane, this woman is yet blind to the need of her own heart.

COLUMBIA THEATRE "Igloo," the Universal drama filmed in the frozen stretches of Northwestern Alaska, with a cast composed entirely of Eskimos, is now at the Columbia Theatre. The film not only deals intimately with the home life of the natives, living in ice igloos during the terrible Winters, but follows them in a great trek to the sea, where they are seen in exciting hunts for whale, walrus and polar bear.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Old memories were revived for George Nicholls, Jr., when he directed the country school sequences of RKO-Radio's "Anne of Green Gables," now at the Playhouse, which will doubtless also make many others hark back to the past. When a boy, Nicholls attended the same type of school in Lewiston, Pa. All of the eight grammar school grades occupied one room and were taught by the same teacher.

TO REPRESENT B.C. IN EAST

Dr. H. E. Young and Dr. H. M. Cassidy Will Attend Several Conventions

British Columbia will be represented at health, medical and social service conventions in Ottawa, Montreal and other points this month, Hon. G. M. Weir intimated yesterday, following the recent departure of Dr. Henry E. Young, provincial health officer, and Dr. H. M. Cassidy, director of social welfare, for the East.

Dr. Young arrived yesterday at Ottawa to attend a three-day convention of the Dominion Health Council, after which he is to visit Atlantic City for the convention of Canadian and American Medical Associations.

Dr. Cassidy left at the same time for Montreal, where he will deliver a paper to the American Social Welfare Association; and later, attend sessions of the Adult Education Association, which is holding a three-day convention between June 13 and June 15.

Dr. Cassidy will represent Dr. Weir at the latter gathering, the provincial secretary stated.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MEET AT DUNCAN

Revised Plan for Medical Inspection Approved—Asking Tenders For Bus Transportation

DUNCAN, June 6.—Duncan Consolidated School Trustees held their monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, all members attending. Dr. H. P. Swan, medical health officer, was present and approved the revised plan for medical inspection in the schools. This plan calls for a very thorough examination of all pupils on starting school, and another careful examination on entering Grade V. The medical health officer will at all times be ready to examine cases at the request of the Health Centre staff.

Tenders are being called to be submitted before September 1 for bus transportation of school children, alternative tenders for one or three years to be submitted. Tenders are also being asked for painting the Junior Elementary School and for supplying the year's fuel.

Extraordinary estimates will be submitted to Duncan and North Cowichan councils to raise $16,500 for erecting a new high school. The site selected is approximately seven acres of Indian Reserve, occupying a commanding site overlooking the city.

The report of School Inspector Fraser was read, which showed the Consolidated School to be in a very satisfactory condition.

Ill-Fated Plane Seen in Newsreel At the Dominion

THE world's biggest airplane crashes to destruction, causing the deaths of fifty-two persons! The latest pictures of the Maxim Gorky are to be seen in the current issue of The Colonist Universal Newsreel, now at the Dominion Theatre. Graham McNamee, noted radio announcer and the screen's talking reporter, vividly describes the crash and the other important events in the reel.

The huge machine takes off from the flying field at Moscow, U.S.S.R., as it did on its last trip, when a smaller plane, stunting around the monster, crashed into it, bringing the Gorky to earth.

Other important events to be seen in the current reel include widespread floods covering many square miles of farm lands around Altus, Okla.; big green frogs hopping about Central Park, New York City, in a revival of Mark Twain's famous croaker contest; King Saxon winning the forty-second running of the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park, New York, in a neck-and-neck finish; gliders from the first international "sky train" landing in the densely-packed streets of Havana, Cuba, after a successful hop from Key West, Fla., and attractive models showing beach wear, inspired by the Stresa peace talks, along the top of a big bar in New York City.

Horticultural Society Meets This Evening

The Vancouver Island Horticultural Association will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers and other business tonight at 8 o'clock in the City Council Chamber.

Court of Appeal

Victoria Sittings

Jackson vs. Lavoie—Appeal by the plaintiffs from the order of Fisher, J., of April 24, 1935, fixing the amount payable in costs by the defendant to the plaintiffs at $186.59. On the termination of the action, it was held that the defendant was responsible to the extent of 80 per cent for the accident over which the action arose, and the plaintiffs 20 per cent and the costs were apportioned in the same proportion.

The taxing officer taxed the plaintiffs' costs at $332.55 and the defendant at $397.27. He added the two amounts together, i.e., $729.82, and found 80 per cent of this sum, i.e., $583.85, was payable by the defendant to the plaintiffs, and 20 per cent of the total, i.e., $145.86, payable by the plaintiffs to the defendant. Subtracting the latter from the former, he found the amount due from the defendant to the plaintiffs to be $437.89. On appeal from the taxing officer's allocation, it was held that as 80 per cent of the total costs was $583.85, which was payable by the defendant, and as the defendant had paid his own costs amounting to $397.27, the balance payable by him is $186.59, and he must pay this sum to the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs appealed and the appeal was argued before Martin, McPhillips, M. A. Macdonald and McQuarrie, J.J.A., when judgment was reserved.

J. A. MacInnes for the appellants, J. R. Nicholson for the respondent.

A. Kytle vs. W. Sandry—An appeal by the plaintiff from the judgment of Murphy, J., in an action for damages arising out of a motor accident. The plaintiff, a pedestrian, was injured at a crossing by coming in contact with the bar driven by the defendant. The latter alleged that the plaintiff went in front of the car, and thereby became the author of his own injury. The trial judge did not accept this submission, and held that the accident was occasioned entirely by the negligence of the defendant in not having his car under proper control. General judgment was given in $2,500 and costs.

Plaintiff appealed and the appeal was heard yesterday before Martin, McPhillips, M. A. Macdonald and McQuarrie, J.J.A. The court increased the award by $750.

C. L. McAlpine for appellant, C. W. Craig, K.C., for respondent.

Watson vs. Pacific Stages, Limited—Appeal by plaintiff from the judgment of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in an action for damages arising out of a motor accident. Plaintiff was a passenger on the defendant's bus, which came into collision with a motor car and was upset. A collision had just occurred in advance of the bus between two motor cars. One of these cars was still under motion, and it was in an endeavor to avoid this car, which was proceeding irregularly, that the collision occurred.

Plaintiff's case was principally that the bus should have stopped on observation of the collision between the two cars, which happened some 200 feet ahead. There were also allegations of defective brakes, defective seating and negligent driving. The opinion of the trial judge was to the effect that the plaintiff had not discharged the duty incumbent upon her to show that her injuries were received through the absence of reasonable care on the part of the defendant's driver, but that the accident was attributable to the erratic course taken by the car which collided with the bus. The plaintiff's action was, therefore, dismissed.

The appeal was opened yesterday before Martin, McPhillips, M. A. Macdonald and McQuarrie, J.J.A., and argument is continuing.

J. A. MacInnes for appellant, W. B. de Farris, K.C., for respondent.

Says California Little Upset by Failure of NRA

California is little disturbed by the recent defeat of the NRA, and state political leaders, bankers, merchants and businessmen are all optimistic, believing the United States will continue its climb out of the slump, according to R. F. Forbes, official of the trust department of the First National Bank in Los Angeles, who is holidaying at the Empress Hotel.

"Residents of California seem to be happy and are looking forward to substantial strides in business this Summer owing to the San Diego Exposition that is expected to draw many thousands to the state," the visitor said.

Recommendations to Govern Game Birds On Island Approved

Victoria and Island Fish and Game Association Adopt Regulations Which Will Be Forwarded to Vancouver Island Association

Recommendations governing seasons and bag limits for game birds on Vancouver Island, other than migratory, were approved by the Victoria and Island Fish and Game Association at its meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce.

The recommendations will go forward to the Vancouver Island Association for approval before being sent to the Provincial authorities. Previously proposals were sent direct to the authorities from the various associations, but under the new method associations submit their recommendations to the Island body which is composed of representatives from all affiliated bodies.

SEASONS ARE SET

Seasons and bag limits approved by the Victoria and district group are as follows:

Pheasants—October 19 to November 24, inclusive. Bag limit, four a day and twenty a season.

Partridge—October 19 to November 3, inclusive. Bag limit, four a day and twenty a season.

Blue grouse—September 14 to October 31, inclusive. Bag limit, six a day and twenty-five a season.

Willow Grouse—The last week of the blue grouse season. Bag limit, six a day and twenty-five the season.

Quail—October 19 to November 24, inclusive. Bag limit, ten a day and fifty the season.

Fantail Pigeons—September 14 to October 31, inclusive.

Mountain Quail—Season remains closed.

The bag limit for willow and blue grouse, when both are in season, will be six a day and twenty-five the season, combined.

METAL LICENSES

The local association also recommended that metal tags be used for hunting and fishing licenses instead of the paper license now issued. This is a recommendation to revert to the old system of hunting licenses. The metal tag for fishermen is a new idea.

Members of the association voiced their disapproval of the $5 license fee for non-resident fishing licenses for salt water fishing and recommended the Island Association press for removal of all license fees for non-resident salt water fishing, or reinstatement of the one dollar a day charge.

The proposal to close Prospect Lake to hunters, advanced at the last meeting of the association, was opposed by the members last night, and the authorities will be so advised. It is understood, it was reported at the meeting, that petitions were being circulated among the property owners at Prospect Lake, one for the closing of the lake area and creating a sanctuary and the other opposing the move.

HIGHLAND DISTRICT

The Provincial game authorities will be asked to reconsider the association's recommendation for the closing of the Highland District to hunters for a period of two years to allow for replenishing of deer. The provincial body rejected the recommendation on the ground, of possible protests from farmers in the areas affected. The association, however, agreed to a compromise. If the authorities are opposed to the closing for a two-year period, the association would welcome a short deer season, possibly thirty days at the opening of the regular deer hunting season.

The Victoria and District Association represents approximately 1,700 sportsmen in the lower part of Vancouver Island. This estimate is based on the number of hunting licenses issued to residents of the districts last year. In order to stimulate greater interest in the association a committee was appointed last night to arrange for a banquet for sportsmen, to be held at a suitable date, to which all hunters and fishermen will be invited.

AN ACTIVE GROUP

It is the aim of the officers and members to build up the local group so that recommendations they may make from time to time will carry the wishes of the majority of those who indulge in the out-of-door sport. The association is an active unit, not only in promoting the interests of the individual hunter, but for the conservation and preservation of game and fish on Vancouver Island. The work costs a good deal of money, and the association is faced with the necessity of increasing its number of paid-up members in order that the work may be carried on from year to year. Decisions of the Victoria body, in the past, have been accepted as the basis for the setting of seasons for game for the lower part of the Island.

The association meets the first Monday in every second month, and the annual general meeting is to be held the first Monday in August. Roger Monteith is president, and Stanley Shemilt is secretary.

Oak Bay Schools' Sports Meet Will Be Staged Today

SPRINT stars from the many schools in the Oak Bay Municipality will vie for honors this afternoon at Cranmore Road grounds at the annual inter-school track and field meet staged by the Oak Bay Schools Athletic Association. There will be five events for the junior and intermediate athletes, and a 440-yard race for the seniors. Shields for the aggregate winners in the intermediate and junior divisions will be presented. One of the feature events will be the inter-school relay for the Anscomb Cup. The Curtis Cup will go to the winner of the 220-yard junior race, and the Oak Bay Schools Athletic Association Cup will be presented to the winner of the 100-yard intermediate event. The Clear Cup is the major prize in the 440-yard senior race. The first event will start at 9 o'clock.

HELEN MOODY SCORES HARD NET VICTORY

Takes Tough Match From Miss Hardwick to Reach Semi-Finals

WEYBRIDGE, Eng., June 6 (AP).—Helen Wills Moody defeated Miss R. M. Hardwick, of England, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, today to reach the semi-final round of the St. George's Hill tennis tournament.

Miss Hardwick, one of the best of the younger crop of English stars, gave the former world's champion a terrific fight before bowing in a match played in a drizzling rain and on a slippery grass court.

HELEN MOODY

Mrs. Moody, playing in the tournament as the first step in a comeback campaign, won the match with three strong games after the last set was even at three-all. She bombarded her young opponent with booming drives down the sidelines that the English girl could not handle.

The first two of these games went to deuce, but the Californian took the last decisively on her own service.

The court was so slippery that Mrs. Moody, after being down 1-4 in the first set, pulled socks over her shoes in order to get firmer footing.

In the second set, Miss Hardwick, leading 5-4 and 30-all on her own service, was within two points of being the first English woman to defeat Mrs. Moody since Helen won her first championship. The match was a sparkling backhand duel throughout.

Mrs. Moody's semi-final round opponent tomorrow will be "Billy" Yorke.

GEHRINGER NOW FOURTH

Detroit Second Sacker Breaks Tie With Idle Jimmie Foxx

By the Associated Press

Charley Gehringer gained an undisputed place in the Big Six yesterday while three other active members all lost ground in the batting race. Gehringer made two hits in four times up to hoist his average three points to .358 and move past the idle Jimmie Foxx into fourth place. Meanwhile a reeheck of Rollie Hemsley's record revealed an overlooked time at bat, lowering his average and dropping him definitely out of the sextette. In the National League group Arky Vaughan and Joe Medwick both failed to hit, losing seven and eight points respectively. Pepper Martin connected only once in four attempts for a three-point drop.

Oaks Race Will Be Held At Epsom Downs Today

Seventeen Three-Year-Olds to Race Over Derby Course — Mesa Is Favored — Aga Khan's Entry, Ankaret, Has Outside Chance

EPSOM DOWNS, June 6 (AP).—Seventeen three-year-old fillies will contest the Oaks tomorrow afternoon over the Derby course of one and one-half miles, with Pierre Wertheimer's Mesa the outstanding choice.

Mesa romped away with the One Thousand Guineas Stakes at Epsom a month ago, but the opposition tomorrow is somewhat stronger and the French owner is none too sure of a win in the Oaks.

The One Thousand and the Oaks are the two classics for fillies, and the question tonight was whether Mesa in the One Thousand Guineas.

Frank Butters, the Aga Khan's trainer, thinks that his Ankaret has more than an outside chance. J. Shand's Hynford Bridge, second to Mesa in the one thousand guineas, and Lord Derby's Coronal, unplaced in the Newmarket classic, are also highly regarded.

STARTING LIST

Probable starters and jockeys for the 156th running of the Oaks—it was first run in 1779, the year before the Derby was inaugurated—are as follows:

Buchanite (Lane), Merry Maid (Weston), Corrida (Elliot), Irish Lassie II (Sirett), Coronal (Perryman), Foxlair (Steve Donoghue), Light Tackle (E. Smith), Sunkiss (Berry), Solerina (Gordon Richards), Ankaret (Fox), Fair Etonian (H. Beasley), Hynford Bridge (H. Wragg), Papyrette (Smirke), Quashed (Jelliss), Blue Girl (Nevett), Clerestory (Jones) and Mesa (Johnstone).

Czechoslovakia Takes Lead Over Japanese Netters

PRAHA, June 6 (AP)—Josef Cacka and Dodrich Menzel sent Czechoslovakia away to a 2-0 lead over Japan in the quarter-final round of European zone Davis Cup tennis play today.

Cacka, a promising youngster, defeated Jiro Yamagishi, 6-1, 8-6, 6-3, while Menzel, one of the world's ranking amateurs for several years, disposed of Hideo Nashimura, 6-3, 6-2, 8-5.

Entry List for Women's Tourney To Close Today

THE entry list of the women's city golf championship, which will open at the Victoria Golf Club next Monday with the eighteen-hole qualifying test carded, will close this afternoon with the women's secretary at the Oak Bay club at 4 o'clock. A large field is expected to face the starter next week. Match play will open Tuesday and continue each day until Friday, when the two survivors clash in the eighteen-hole final. Miss Mary Mackenzie-Grieve, of Uplands club, is the defending titleholder and is almost a sure starter.

TILLICUMS TO MEET EAGLES

Proudlove to Oppose Jones In Mound Battle This Evening

ROUND rivals in the Senior Amateur Baseball League last season, Jimmy Proudlove and Lloyd Jones will face each other this evening at the Royal Athletic Park when the undefeated Eagles hook up with the Tillicums in a Victoria and District Commercial Baseball League fixture at 6:15 o'clock.

Proudlove, first-string hurler for the birdmen, has yet to taste defeat this season, but tonight he will have his hands full with the heavy-hitting clubmen. Jones, southpaw ace who will oppose Proudlove, will be out to humble the Eagles for the first time this season.

On Saturday the Commercial Baseball League will present a twin bill at the Royal Athletic Park. In the matinee attraction, at 2:30 o'clock, a combined Sons of Canada-Eagles nine will meet a team selected from Tillicums and Stockers. The nightcap will be a league fixture between the Eagles and Stockers, undefeated clubs in the pennant chase. The fixture will start at 6 o'clock.

ALVIN KRUEGER HAS SUB-PAR ROUND OF 71 AS OPEN STARTS

Twenty-Nine-Year-Old Semi-Pro Ball Pitcher and Wisconsin Golf Professional Turns in Only Under-Par Card—Disastrous Day for Many Famous Players

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer.

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP).—Making the only successful attack on Oakmont's dreaded par after one of the most calamitous opening days in the history of the United States Open golf championship, Alvin "Butch" Krueger, twenty-nine-year-old semi-pro pitcher and a golf professional at Beloit, Wis., today led an international field of shotmakers with a one under par 71. The red-headed Wisconsin "dark horse" was the only player among 157 starters to crack par for the full route over a course that raised havoc with some of the most famous figures in American golf. He pulled a "Garrison" finish to take over the first day's lead from Roland Mackenzie, former amateur ace and now professional at the Congressional Country Club of Washington, D.C. Mackenzie's par-equaling round, 38-34—72, had stood up under heavy bombardment most of the afternoon.

HORTON SMITH

Leading threat of the invaders, slim Sid Brews, of South Africa, stayed close to the front with a steady 76.

HORTON SMITH HAS 73

Bracketed within a stroke of Mackenzie, at 73 each, after tossing away golden scoring opportunities in the stretch, were four other professionals—Horton Smith, of Chicago; Herman Barron, of White Plains, N.Y.; Jimmy Thomson, the California "siege gun," and Cliff Spencer, of Washington.

There was another quartette trailing the leader by three strokes. Big Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia, the first to register a 74, later found himself bracketed with Tommy Armour and Jim Foulis, of Chicago, and Macdonald Smith, the veteran Scot, now of California.

The tournament favorite, Gene Sarazen, finished with a 75—three over par.

The defending champion, Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, faltered on the incoming nine after a good start, and posted a 77, leaving him five shots off the pace.

The carnage was frightful, as a good share of the field waged a losing struggle with Oakmont's hazards. Less than half of the field succeeded in breaking 80 on the 6,981-yard layout.

FAR BEHIND

Two of the younger mid-Western favorites, Harold "Jug" McSpaden, of Kansas City, Kansas, and Johnny Revolta, of Milwaukee, each posted an 80. George Von Elm had an 81 and Leo Diegel had an 82.

Of the foreign challengers, five finishers among the Japanese contingent ranged from 82 to 87.

Scores follow:

Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, 40-34—74.
Bill Kaiser, Louisville, 40-38—78.

The Victoria eleven will be as follows:

H. A. Goward (captain), A. J. Darcus, W. J. Moffatt, G. Wilkinson, J. F. Meredith, G. H. Kinch, F. Jordan, H. A. Tomalin, O. B. Hope, V. Moore and C. Jones. Umpire, H. F. Hewett.

Five C's team will be as follows: P. C. Payne (captain), Butterworth, Comley, Qualnton, J. Payne, G. Payne, Nixon, Williams, Adie, Griffin, Pillar and Attwell.

Wrestles Tomorrow at Tillicum Gym

HARRY DEMETRAL

CHICAGO exponent of the grunt and groan pastime, who has been matched with Tommy Thompson, San Francisco, for the semi-windup of tomorrow's squirm programme at the Tillicum Gymnasium. Demetral and Thompson will go five eight-minute rounds, or the best two out of three falls. In the main event Jack Foragren, Vancouver fireman, will oppose "Gentleman" Jack Washburn, rugged New Yorker, in what should be a lively match. The card promises to produce plenty of fireworks, as Foragren and Washburn battle for the "bad man" supremacy of Victoria. The first bout will start at 8:45 o'clock.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Oldest High School Student—During the Winter term of the McKinley High School in Canton, Ohio, A. E. Stewart, age seventy-two, took up his studies in the night school art classes, and at the time laid his claims to be "the oldest public school pupil in Ohio—or even the U.S.A." Mr. Stewart's remarkable progress in his art studies is shown in the cartoon he drew of himself which I reproduced in my cartoon about him.

Crossing Point of Five Federal Highways—The intersection of Wilson and Illinois Avenues in Vinita, Oklahoma, is reputed to be the only spot in the United States where five Federal highways intersect. They are: U.S. 60, Coast-to-Coast highway; U.S. 69, Canada to Mexico; U.S. 59, Canada to Texas; U.S. 66, Chicago to Los Angeles, and U.S. 73, Iowa to Atoka, Okla.

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP).—The Pirates climaxed a climb from fifth place in the National League standing to second in a little over a week's span today when they turned back the Cardinals 2 to 1 to move a half game ahead of the losers.

Guy Bush, rated as something of a veteran among the hurlers, hooked up with Jesse ("Pop") Haines, who is some nine years older, in a brilliant mound duel that was settled in the first two innings. Bush granted only four hits over the full route to gain his third victory of the season.

PATRICK TO SEEK COAST FIGHT TITLE

Canadian B.C. Heavyweight Champion Enters Tournament at Seattle

Murray ("Muzz") Patrick, Canadian amateur heavyweight champion and holder of the British Columbia heavyweight title, will compete in the Washington State amateur boxing championships, which will be held at the Seattle Ice Arena on Wednesday and Thursday nights, June 26 and 27.

Patrick's entry was received at Seattle the other day along with other Victoria entries, among them Rex Carey, 160 pounds; Kid Garner, 147 pounds, and Robert Parker, 112 pounds.

Patrick stands 6 feet 2 inches and scales 190 pounds. He is nineteen years of age and is the son of Lester Patrick, famous hockey mogul. Young Patrick has had six contests and has won four of them by knockouts. Boxing men say he would make good in professional boxing if he decided to take up the glove sport to that end. Perhaps his father may wish to have him play hockey.

Tommy Drysdale, who is training the Victoria boys, and who is likewise an amateur boxer, may decide to enter the tournament himself. Other Victoria boxers may also enter the Seattle tournament.

BAYLEY INVITED

Men in charge of the tournament have hit upon a novel idea. They have invited all the great ring stars of the past to serve as referees, each to handle two or three bouts. Among those who have been asked to serve are Joe Bayley, of Victoria, former Canadian lightweight champion; Bobby Harper, former Pacific Coast welterweight champion; Doc Snell, Tod Morgan, Dode Bercot, Bud Ridley, Ted Krache, Floyd Johnson, Chet McIntyre and some thirty others.

PRELIMINARY ROUND

J. A. McDonald and C. E. Swansland vs. E. E. Corbett and R. A. C. Dewar; J. W. Mercer and F. Harman vs. F. W. Davey and E. G. Sherwood; W. Wilson and D. Robertson vs. M. Mossey and G. A. Marconini; G. E. Taylor and W. Robb vs. J. E. Day and Dr. Henry; J. McMartin and A. T. Harris vs. T. Currie and W. Corby; A. R. Hooper and J. G. Cromack vs. W. Carpenter and W. Peddle; P. Armiston and Major Baxandall vs. H. Baker and J. Davis; J. S. Akins and Captain J. Catterall vs. W. Arnot and W. H. Youhill; W. Childs and S. Payte vs. W. J. MacAllum and C. Collings; P. Chesworth and C. Goodwin vs. H. Lutz and A. G. Mitchell; C. Wood and S. Mitchell vs. E. E. Corbett, Jr., and H. M. Wright; R. Stewart and W. Wallace vs. D. Dewar and A. McKeachie.

Play will consist of eighteen ends. All matches must be completed by June 25. First-round matches must be finished by July 13.

E. Myers, W. Davidson, A. McCallum, J. Richardson, J. Morton, A. B. McNeill, J. Johnston and P. Harris drew byes in the preliminary round.

Letters to the Editor

Sports Editor:

JUNIOR CRICKET

Sir,—Such enthusiasm was displayed at the match on June 3 by the juniors taking part, that it has been decided by the Victoria Cricket Club to welcome any school boys who may care to avail themselves of the nets. Terry Pears, the popular groundsman, will be on hand on Tuesdays and Thursdays each week, and junior cricketers are assured of a hearty welcome. The youngsters will be permitted to use the nets any time between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. on the said days of the week. It is sincerely hoped that, by adopting this course, junior cricket will be encouraged and, at a not too distant date, the local clubs will have a substantial list to draw from. It has been extremely unfortunate that more boys have not been given the opportunity to play cricket in Victoria and district. The enthusiasm registered in the local schools—when the boys were asked recently if they desired to play—augurs well for the future. It is quite patent that if this spirit is fostered in the right manner, there will be no dearth of talent available for all types of cricket games in the years to come.

The match on June 3, at Macdonald Park, showed that no fewer than twelve youngsters were given the opportunity to play, and the spectators on hand were very much impressed with the spirit of the boys to do justice to themselves in all departments of the game.

HERBERT LETHABY.

79 Wellington Avenue, Victoria, B.C., June 5, 1935.

WINDSOR LAD IN TROPHY VICTORY

EPSOM DOWNS, June 6 (A.P.).—M. E. Benson's four-year-old colt, Windsor Lad, winner of the Derby last year, took the measure of a small but select field today to win the Coronation Cup, run over the Derby course of a mile and a half. Windsor Lad finished a length and a half ahead of Lord Woolavington's Easton, with H. E. Crum-Ewing's Caymanus third another four lengths back. The only other runner was Benton's Beresfell.

Windsor Lad and Easton each started at even money; Caymanus at 20 to 1.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Ladies' Day is announced for next Saturday at the local ball yard (Royal Athletic grounds), when the Elder Pioneers, one of the four fastest amateur teams of Seattle, strengthened by four of the University of Washington lads who were here last week, will face the Victoria nine. Manager Wattalet has decided it is time the fair sex were given a treat at the expense of the club, and so he has authorized this statement. He adds that as a special feature, immediately after the match, the Beacon Hills, one of Victoria's brightest intermediate nines, with the spectacular Ed Steele in the box, will be seen in action against the Empress.

* * *

Who will have the honor of representing Victoria in the international tournament, which takes place at Spokane early in June?

Local enthusiasts are beginning to ask the question and the decision of the local club's committee is awaited with considerable interest. It is the opinion of the majority that the claims of Bernard Schwengers can scarcely be overlooked, and the element of uncertainty dwindles down to the single point as to who shall be Schwenger's partner. For this position several have been mentioned, most prominent among whom is the name of A. J. Cambie. Others include McRae, McDougal, Keefer and Marshall.

Mount View High School Captures Friendly Cricket

Mount View High School cricketers defeated the University School eleven, 82 to 65, in a friendly match played at the Mount Tolmie grounds. Huff batted well for the losers, contributing twenty-eight runs. Field scored ten runs and Teagle eleven runs for the University School side.

The batting of Moore, of the Mount View High School, who carried his bat after scoring twenty-eight runs, was one of the highlights of the game. Austin and Humphries, of the winners, scored fifteen and thirteen runs, respectively.

Moore bowled well, taking four wickets for ten runs, while Martin, a teammate, took five wickets for thirty runs. Teagle led the University School bowlers, taking three wickets for nineteen runs. Henderson accounted for two Mount View batsmen for sixteen runs.

When the stumps were drawn Mount View High School had three wickets to fall.

An old native, very simple-minded and religious, came up to his master one morning beaming with delight.

"Master," he said, "I had such a beautiful dream last night. I dreamt that I had gone to heaven, and there I saw master and missis and many others from the farm."

"And what about your old Liza? Did you see her there, too?" asked his master.

"Oh, master," said the old native, "how stupid of me; I quite forgot to look in the kitchen."

POP FOSTER SIGNS FOR NEXT BOUT

New York Paper States McLarnin to Meet Canzoneri Or Brouillard

NEW YORK, June 6 (CP). — The New York Mirror said tonight in its early Friday edition, that Jimmy McLarnin has been signed to fight either Tony Canzoneri or Lou Brouillard, late this Summer. The paper said "Pop" Foster, manager of the former welterweight champion from Vancouver, signed articles with Madison Square Garden. At the Upper Broadway Hotel, where Foster and Jimmy have been staying since Barney Ross out-decisioned the Canadian Celt, May 28, it was said they checked out today and left no forwarding address. Matchmaker James Johnston, of the Garden, was not immediately available for comment.

TONY CANZONERI

Brouillard, a middleweight who briefly held the championship in that class after ruling the welterweights, is like McLarnin, a Canadian. He was born at St. Eugene, Que., and now lives in New Haven.

Canzoneri, Italian veteran of New York's East Side, recently tumbled Lou Ambers, of Herkimer, N.Y., to win New York State recognition as successor to the lightweight throne Ross abdicated two months ago.

MANITOBA PICKS CUP GOLF SQUAD

WINNIPEG, June 6 (CP).—Selection of Bobby Reith, Dan Kennedy and Ernie Palmer, of Winnipeg, to team with "Bud" Donovan at Hamilton as Manitoba's representative four-man team in the inter-provincial Willingdon Golf Trophy competition, was announced by the Manitoba Golf Association today.

The quartette of Manitoba's shot makers boast a fine record in competitive golf. Donovan, as member of the all-star Canadian team to tour the British Isles, made a creditable showing in British Amateur golf tournament. Palmer reached the semi-finals of the Canadian Amateur championships last year, while Reith and Kennedy, playing in city and district medal tournament, finished first and second, respectively.

PEARS INJURED IN MAIN EVENT

Victoria Grappler Taken to Jubilee Hospital Following Bout at Tillicum Gym

With Johnny Pears, well-known local wrestler and referee, lying on the mat in agony, and Reg Hopkins, his opponent, standing by ready to take every advantage, the main event of yesterday evening's free wrestling show at the Tillicum gymnasium ended in dramatic fashion in the third round. Struck over the left kidney earlier in the round, Pears tried to continue, but collapsed on the canvas an injured grappler, and Harry Short, the third man in the ring, had no other alternative than to award Hopkins the bout.

Carried to the dressing-room by seconds, Pears was given first aid and then Dr. E. L. McNiven was summoned. After a hurried examination Pears was ordered removed to the Jubilee Hospital. Dr. McNiven stated that there was a possibility of a spinal injury, but no definite diagnosis of the case could be made until after an X-ray picture has been taken.

GARNOT WINS

Al Garnot scored an odd-fall victory over Vic "Legs" Hay in the semi-wind-up, and Louis Newman gained a one-fall decision over Percy Sherwood.

Pinning A. Gardiner in the third round for the only fall, Bill Steen won the second match on the card. "Young" Doc Sarpolis won a one-fall match from "Young" Ernie Arthur.

During the evening a number of moving picture shots of the boys in action were taken, with Major Fred Richardson occupying the role of cameraman.

The card was full of action all of the way, with the youngsters putting all they had into the show for the benefit of the 500 or more fans.

LAUNDRY NINE WINS ANOTHER

Bunch Their Hits in Sixth to Defeat Silent Glows, 6-4 —Other Results

Driving over all of their runs in a sixth-inning barrage of hits, New Method Laundry, last season's city and Island softball champions, defeated Silent Glows, 6-4, yesterday evening at Bullen Park in an "A" section Lower Island Softball Association fixture. The burnermen pushed over one marker in the fifth, two in the sixth and one more in the seventh frame for a total of four runs.

Playing good ball behind the effective mound work of Teskey, their star twirler, Garrison turned back the Civic Staff nine, 7-5, at Work Point Barracks. Bert Waudes squeezed out a 10-9 win over Brundson's Boys in a ding-dong battle at Victoria West Park.

Manager Eddie Short's hairdressing nine picked up victory in the fifth frame with two men away. Wilf Shouldice's double with the bases loaded, which sent across three runners, gave Waudes a sweet decision. Brundson's were leading, 8-6, when the clever outfielder of Waudes came through with his timely two-bagger.

Painter's Bruins continued their mad dash towards the "B" Section pennant when they checked in with an 8-5 victory over Kresges at Savory Park. It was the fifth straight victory for the fuelmen and gaven them a slight lead in the sectional chase.

Captures Fourteen Wickets For 78 Runs as Yorkshire Triumphs

LONDON, June 6 (CP). — Yorkshire defeated Hampshire by an innings and 135 runs, in a county cricket championship match at Hull today that turned out to be a real triumph for Hedley Verity, the northern county's crack bowler.

In the two Hampshire innings, the tall left-hander captured fourteen wickets for seventy-eight runs. The Yorkshire total of 315 runs for five wickets included an even century by Herbert Sutcliffe and a score of ninety by Arthur Mitchell. Hampshire was dismissed for 63 and 117.

Rain again interfered with games in many parts of the country.

Derbyshire, 197 and 17 runs for no wickets; Worcestershire, 161; at Worcester.

Lancashire, 22; Glamorgan, 27 for two wickets; at Blackburn.

Surrey, 149; Sussex, 80 for one wicket.

Todd Cup Meet To Be Held at Oak Bay Sunday

First half of the annual handicap competition for the handsome cup presented by Charles F. Todd, consisting of eighteen holes medal play under handicap, will be held at the Victoria Golf Club on Sunday. The second half, under the same conditions, will be staged on June 16. A large field is expected to go in search of the silverware.

The winner will hold the cup for one year, or until it is next played for, and will also receive a replica or other prize, which he will retain. There will also be prizes for second and third. Competitors will choose their opponents and arrange for their starting times. Post entries will be accepted.

Four midweek games have been played in this week's schedule of the Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching League, with no unexpected results. Pioneer "A" remained unbeaten when they defeated Jackson "A," 198 to 171, each team having a winning pair. M. "Scotty" MacKenzie was high man with twenty-five ringers. Charlie Groth, "B" class champion, gave "Scotty" a hard match to register twenty-one perfect throws for the Jackson team. Captain C. Fraser was next with sixteen ringers.

Oaklands "A" were hard pressed by the Veterans of France, and won by a scant seven points, 182 to 175. George Ledingham, with twenty-three perfects, followed by Jimmie McMillan, Sr., with twenty.

Victoria West won over the Strathcona, 201 to 133, T. Crossman being top man with fifteen ringers and Jack Rose close behind with fourteen. Alf Slocomb, of the Strathconas, played steady to register eleven ringers for a half-game.

Jackson "B" defeated Macleod's Garage, 201 to 127, winning with both pairs. D. Jackson, Sr., had fifteen ringers, A. McMillan and "Peg" Bennett sharing second honors with thirteen each.

To the end of last week's schedule, Jimmie Keating leads the league ringer average with an average of twenty-four ringers for eight games. The ten leaders are as follows:

Painful Piles

Go Quick—Prevent Cutting—No Salves

When sore and painful Piles distress and upset you, and salves give insufficient or only temporary help, and wish is to avoid operation; isn't it best to at once try HEM-ROID—the internal remedy for piles?

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced early in his career that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find a remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leonhardt's internal treatment, so why doubt or delay longer when MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and other good druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money-back." Ex-Convict Goes To Albany Squad

ALBANY, N.Y., June 6 (AP)—Alabama Pitts tucked an unconditional release from the Sing Sing Baseball Club in his pocket today and reported to the Albany Senators in the midst of a controversy over his professional eligibility.

As he left the shadows of prison, the star of Sing Sing athletic teams cupped an ear to the high howl of debate over the question.

"Is an ex-convict eligible to play professional baseball?"

W. C. Bramham, president of the National Association of Minor Professional Baseball Leagues, said "No." He said it twice, the last time to Warden Lawes at Sing Sing, who appealed to him.

Charter Market in Month of May Was Weak and Inactive

Dullness Attributed to Millmen and Loggers' Strike—Operators Look to Present Month as Period of Adjustment

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—The Pacific Coast freight and charter market for the month of May can be best described as weak and inactive, due principally to the millmen and loggers' strike in the United States Pacific Northwest, which has more or less effectively curtailed the export of lumber in full cargo lots, as is explained in the body of this report.

The situation, as this goes to press, is not devoid of hope, as rumors have it that an agreement between operators and millmen may soon be reached. The present month, in any case, will no doubt be a period of adjustment, although considerable full cargo business can be expected once labor difficulties are settled.

A resume of the various trades in detail follows:

Japan-China—No full cargoes reported as fixed, although several parcels of wheat were booked for Japan discharge at rates in the neighborhood of $2.25 per ton. No business at the moment reported for China.

U.K.-Continent—No full cargoes or parcels have been fixed from the United States side, although one or two vessels have been chartered to load full cargoes from British Columbia, and several vessels on lump-sum charter were placed on berth for owners' account, whose principal cargo will consist of wheat. Rates are probably in the neighborhood of 16s for full cargoes. There was considerable liner space available and one or two vessels in the United Kingdom trade were reported to have accepted as low as 10s 9d on distress space.

Inter-Coastal—No full cargoes reported, although there has been some inquiry which as yet has not materialized in business.

LUMBER

The millmen and loggers' strike on the United States side, and a stevedores' strike in British Columbia has had a very depressing effect on the market. At the commencement of the millmen and loggers' strike, stevedores agreed to load lumber already cut and lying on the docks or at tidewater available for shipping. Beyond this they generally would not go, with the result that many vessels are lying idle with only part cargoes on board.

Inasmuch as the lumber business is probably the prime factor in Pacific Coast full cargo trades, it goes without saying that this present tie-up in the lumber industry has had a disastrous effect on the chartering market and if continued will cause tramp owners abroad to give the Pacific Coast a wide berth until the situation is adjusted. Negotiations now under way may have the result of bringing a settlement between operators and millmen in the near future.

Japan—No full cargoes reported as fixed. Rates at this time may be said to be $5.50 on squares and $8 on logs.

China—No full cargoes reported as fixed. Rates may be said to be similar to those of Japan.

Australia—No full cargoes reported on the United States side, but three or four vessels reported as fixed on lump-sum basis from British Columbia to Australia.

Inter-Coastal—No full cargoes reported, and while business was active before the mill strike, the regular inter-coastal lines have been forced to curtail sailings due to the lumber tie-up. Also, one or two American tramp vessels are lying on this Coast awaiting business.

U.K.-Continent—No full cargoes reported either from United States West Coast or British Columbia.

SCRAP IRON

No further full cargo fixtures were announced since our report of last month. It is felt that the action of the Pacific West-Bound Conference in reducing the conference rates on scrap iron and steel articles has minimized the chance for full cargo business.

TIME CHARTER

Not an inquiry nor a fixture during the month, and reasons for charterers' reluctance to engage vessels on time charter are the unsettled labor conditions. This is probably the first month in many without fixtures.

TANKERS

A fair number of fixtures have been accomplished in this trade from California ports to various destinations on rates and conditions outlined in fixture list.

Bargain Excursion Starts on E. & N. Line Today

EVERY indication points to the successful inauguration of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway's "bargain excursion," advertised to leave the Store Street Depot for Up-Island points at 9:40 o'clock this morning.

The round-trip tickets which are being sold at about one-fourth of the regular round-trip rates are only good for traveling one way today, but are good for the return trip up to and including Tuesday, June 11.

Local officials of the road were satisfied last night that a good many Victorians will take advantage of the cheap rates to visit Up-Island points, while they expect there will be a big movement of bargain excursionists into Victoria from a number of points up the line.

These "bargain excursions," if the patronage extended the initial venture warrants it, will very likely become a regular offering at intervals throughout the year.

HELD BATTLE MANOEUVRES

Ships of U.S. Navy Move Towards Shores of California

ABOARD FLAGSHIP PENNSYLVANIA, Hawaii to California, June 6 (AP).—Giant guns blasted out another mythical war-time serenade today as the United States fleet, steaming on toward California shores, held battle manoeuvres on the high seas.

Rescue of two navy flyers from a nose-over mishap at sea marked yesterday's spectacular air parade.

An observation seaplane from the battleship Nevada nosed over when it skimmed across the water in landing. The two flyers clambered to safety on a wing as rescue boats from the Pennsylvania, Tennesee and Nevada were hurriedly launched.

The Tennessee crash boat picked up the stranded pair and the disabled plane was taken in tow by a craft from the Nevada.

RAISING FUNDS FOR FIELD DAY

Rainbow Sea Cadets Sponsoring Guessing Contest To Aid With Camp

The guessing contest for the dinghy which Colonel F. A. Lindsay presented to the Rainbow Sea Cadets before he left for Japan will close on June 28 instead of the date advertised on the tickets, it was announced by cadet officials yesterday. The boat and its contents will be weighed on that date, when the boat and its contents, less Mayor David Leeming, will go to the person making the correct, or nearest to correct, guess.

The date was postponed in order to give the cadets who are disposing of the tickets more time to get in touch with friends of the corps. Proceeds from the sale of tickets are to be devoted to paying for field-day prizes and other little necessities in connection with the annual camp at Esquimalt next month. More boys than ever will go under canvas this year, and the funds available are barely enough to cover the cost of their maintenance in the camp for two weeks.

Tuesday night, after the Japanese training ship Kaiwo Maru tied up at Ogden Point Piers, the instructors of the cadets had them march down to the ship. They were welcomed aboard by the ship's officers and shown over every part, spending an interesting and profitable hour.

Teacher of First Aid Gets Framed Pictures of City

F. Blakeman, who during the past six weeks conducted a first aid class in Victoria for C.P.R. employees, including the Empress Hotel, B.C. Coast Service, Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, and the telegraph and pasenger departments, has left for Nelson, where he will conduct classes in first aid before returning to Winnipeg.

Before his departure, at a pleasant ceremony at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Blakeman was presented with a pair of framed pictures of Victoria. Frank Mulliner, C.P.R. baggage agent, making the presentation with well chosen words on behalf of those who attended the classes.

CIRCULAR AIR TOUR PLANNED

Amateur Flyers Will Start From Vancouver on Long Journey

SALT LAKE CITY, June 6 (AP).—In an effort to circle the North American continent over an 11,000-mile course in eleven days, two amateur flyers will leave here next Saturday for Vancouver, B.C.

They are Mahlon S. Kemmerer, post-graduate geology student at the University of Utah, the pilot, and Alfred P. Reck, of The Deseret News' editorial department.

As outlined, their flight will take them across Canada to Quebec and Halifax, N.S., thence down the Atlantic seaboard to Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba; Merida, Yucatan; Vera Cruz, Mexico, D.F.; San Francisco and return to Salt Lake City.

"The flight is an effort to show that a sportsman pilot can make a complete circle of North America in eleven flying days," Reck said.

The plane is a red, four-passenger cabin machine carrying the license number NC 10487.

Security Prices Fairly Steady at New York Mart

Metals and some issues likely to benefit from coming warm weather, such as Coca-Cola, Owens-Illinois Glass and Anchor Cap, were able to move contrary to the trend for fair gains.

Turnover dropped to 676,950 shares.

Some active issues which moved against the trend for gains of major fractions to around 2 points included: Owens-Illinois Glass at 100, Air Reduction at 135 1-2, Evans Products at 18, Loose Wiles at 36 1-2, Cerro de Pasco at 55 1-4, Howe Sound at 49 7-8, U.S. Smelting at 107 1-2, and Pullman at 40 1-8. Coca-Cola was 4 points higher at 222.

Losses of fractions to 2 points or so were chalked up for Eastman Kodak at 141 1-2, Chrysler at 44, American Telephone at 126 1-2.

A strong market for U.S. Government issues overshadowed other developments on the bond market. Advances ranged from 2-32 to 1-8 of a point.

Corporate issues attracting attention on the upside included Atlantic Coast Line 4 1-2's at 73, and New York Central Consolidated 4's at 82 1-2.

German Government 5 1-2's at 25 1-4 were off one point.

Industrial Stocks Turn Downward at Eastern Exchanges

MONTREAL, June 6 (CP).—Listings on the Montreal Stock Exchange leaned downward today.

Montreal Power closed at 28 3-8, off 1-8. Canadian Celanese preferred fared better with a gain of 2 points at 112. The common stock was up 3-4 at 24 1-4.

Losses of 1-4 were registered by C.P.R. at 10 3-8 and Dominion Bridge at 27 1-4.

Massey-Harris rose 1-8 to 4 1-8. Lake of the Woods and Nickel were off 1-8 point.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, June 6 (CP).—Political cross-currents and weakness of commodity prices proved a bit disturbing for industrial stocks and lower prices were the rule at the close of the Toronto Exchange today. Oils closed at the day's lowest level and weakness was apparent also in the steel, food, beverage and bank shares. Thirty-one stocks finished lower, against twenty-two gains.

Walkers common and Canada Malting were the cripples of the beverage group, the former losing a point to 23 1-2 and the latter 1 1-4. Distillers-Seagrams opposed the general trend, closing up a fraction. C.P.R., Brazilian, Nickel and Consolidated Smelters displayed mild heaviness. B.C. Power was firm.

HOME ECONOMICS COURSE PROPOSED

Ladysmith School Trustees Consider Proposal——School Diplomas to Be Duly Attested

LADYSMITH, June 6.—The Board of School Trustees at its regular meeting considered the proposal to establish courses in the higher school grades in home economics.

Trustee Rodger remarked the previous experiment fourteen years ago did not prove entirely satisfactory. "It's no use teaching girls how to fry a herring in half a pound of butter—not in these times," he said.

Wednesday, June 26, was suggested as a graduation class ceremony day by the principal. Diplomas will be awarded to eleven students completing their fourth year, and to ten passing the commercial course. The trustees considered the idea commendable, but will verify the particulars, after ascertaining the responsibility of costs and the suitability of the date.

The Board of School Trustees has purchased an official seal, and the high school diplomas issued to students, showing marks and subjects for the year, will be duly attested by this mark of authority, together with the signature of the principal and the secretary to the board. This is a new departure.

Chairman W. Cullum was appointed to represent the board on the committee interested in furthering adult education for Ladysmith. Work of this committee is in the tentative stage, and a series of night classes and lectures on subjects of practical local interest is proposed.

WHEAT PRICES CHANGE LITTLE

July Future Moves Narrowly In Light Trading at Winnipeg Market

WINNIPEG, June 6 (CP).—Wheat prices hung around dead centre on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today and despite the firm appearance of outside markets, July option was able to gain only 1-8 cent to close at 83 1-2.

Trading was local in character with scarcely a trace of export interest in Canadian wheat. The price range for the session was only 3-8 cent.

A full cargo of high-grade wheat shipped out of Vancouver for the United Kingdom formed the bulk of the export trade.

Cash grains spreads improved fractionally. Trading in coarse grains was desultory.

Bralorne Mine Delays Dividend

VANCOUVER, June 6 (CP).—Bralorne Mines, Ltd., will make no dividend distribution at this time, it was decided by company directors at a meeting today. The official report stated this action was made necessary due to the increase in pay-roll expenses as a result of a strike at the mine last month, and the fact the mill has recently been running a lower grade of ore.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Buster Tries to Drink the Laughing Brook Dry

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Hooty the Owl, sitting on the top of his watch tower, which you know is a tall dead tree, had just sounded his fierce hunting call and was listening for some faint rustle of leaf or twig which would tell him where a suddenly awakened little sleeper was hidden. Off in the distance he heard the faint sound of crackling brush. Without moving his body in the least, he turned his head, and his great fierce yellow eyes glared in that direction.

It didn't take him two seconds to know that somebody was coming in his direction and coming in a hurry. Whoever it was, he wasn't trying to move quietly. In fact, it seemed as if he were trying to make all the noise he could.

Louder and louder grew the sound of breaking twigs under careless feet and with it mingled other strange sounds, little moans and groans and growls and snarls. Just as Hooty recognized the voice of Buster Bear, Buster came in sight. He was running as only Buster can run when he's in a hurry. He was quite heedless of where he stepped. Once or twice he bumped into trees. Right at the foot of Hooty's tree he suddenly threw himself on the ground and rolled over and over. He clapped his hands on his stomach and kicked his hind legs, all the time whining and groaning and now and then growling.

Just as Hooty was trying to make up his mind if Buster had gone crazy, Buster scrambled to his feet and once more plunged ahead recklessly. Hooty spread his great wings and followed as silently as a moving shadow. Buster was headed toward the Laughing Brook and he didn't stop again until he got there. Straight to a place where there was no ice he rushed, and plunged his nose into the cold running water. Then he began to drink as if he intended to drink all the water in the

"Oh-oh-oh-oh ooo!" cried Buster, and once more plunged his nose into the water

Laughing Brook. He didn't take his nose out of that water until he had to to get his breath.

"Oh-oh oh oh-oooo!" cried Buster, and once more plunged his nose into the water. When he finally stopped because he couldn't hold another drop, Hooty spoke. "For goodness sake, Buster Bear, whatever is the matter with you?" said he.

Buster looked up, and Hooty wasn't sure whether it was water from the Laughing Brook or tears running down Buster's face. "I don't know," sobed Buster, "but I feel as if I had a million bees inside me. Yes, sir, I feel as if a million bees were inside me, and everyone stinging."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

ESPERANTO

As our readers know, Esperanto is an artificial language. It is so-called after the nom-de-plume of the man who devised it, Dr. Zamanhof, a Russian philologist, who adopted the pseudonym Dr. Esperanto (meaning hopeful).

Dr. Zamanhof published his first pamphlet urging the world-wide adoption of Esperanto in 1887. Filling a keenly felt need, Esperanto attracted a large following.

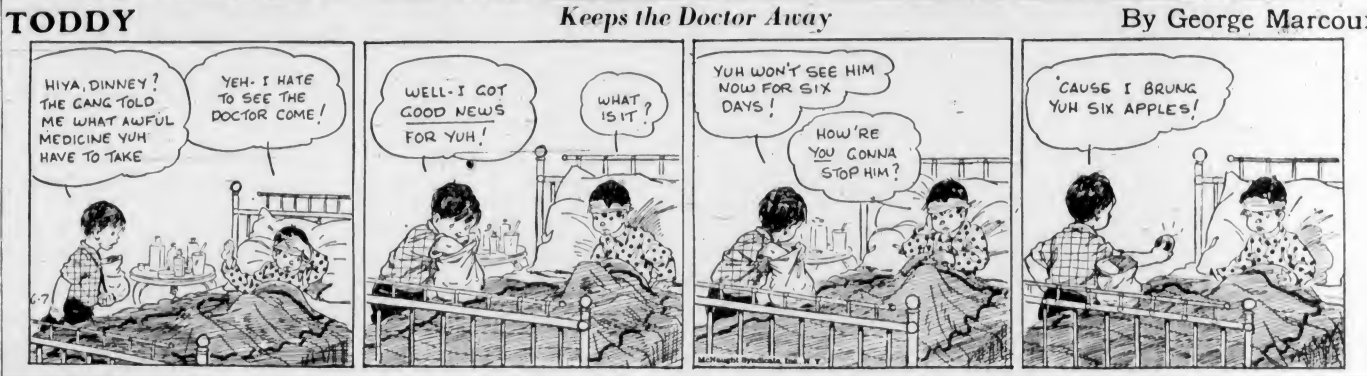

As languages go, Esperanto is easy to learn. It looks and sounds familiar; in fact, it is familiar, for its vocabulary is for the most part composed of words which are common to the important European languages.

Though it is the culmination of one of the many efforts of man to provide a means to satisfy his instinctive craving to fraternise, the enthusiastic expectations and hopes of the early advocates of Esperanto have not materialised. However, people the world over will apparently always desire to talk directly to each other. Some day, they may be able to do it through a universal language.

THREE REASONS ARE GIVEN FOR REDUCED CITY WATER CHARGE

Mayor David Leeming yesterday stated there were three important reasons why the city proposed to reduce water rates during the Summer months.

First, the city wished to keep Victoria gardens green during the dry period; second, the city wished to ascertain if the revenue of the waterworks department could be maintained or even increased with an irrigation rate, and third, to ascertain if the city's distribution system could stand the pressure of keeping Victoria supplied during the Summer months.

Jane Dixon Says:

LOVE WITHOUT HARMONY NON-EXISTENT. DISMAYED WANTS ADVICE BECAUSE THERE'S ALWAYS A FEELING OF CONSTRAINT BETWEEN HER AND BOY FRIEND

There is no such thing as love without harmony.

Love is a splendid, thrilling, vibrant chord, and when two persons try to play it in discord, they are on the way to shatter their nerves and break their hearts.

Dear Jane Dixon, is the plea from Dismayed. I always considered myself equal to most situations that arise between myself and my men friends. But here's one I can't meet and I'd appreciate your advice.

I am almost eighteen and the young man I've been going with is just a year my senior. It's rather unusual for me to go with so young a chap as all my other men friends have been well in their twenties.

I know he is in love with me and I believed myself to be in love with him, too, but lately I've began to doubt. I've never been able to talk with him freely and openly. I've met his family several times and I think they like me.

He has talked marriage with me and in every way has proven well—everything that a husband-to-be should be.

Yet there is one fault which threatens to disrupt our friendship: he never shows me the little courtesies girls love and value so much. We can never act naturally when there is someone present. There is always constraint between us.

Recently this feeling has grown, so that I am on the point of screaming from sheer boredom. I need someone to whom I can talk, someone who can give me the companionship I've missed in him.

Lately I met a man ten years older than I. He made me feel more acutely than ever the gap between my friend and me.

I realize I'm being cruel to my friend in comparing him with a man so much more experienced, but what can I do? My friend deserves happiness which I find it impossible to give him. It certainly isn't his fault that we are unsuited.

Tonight matters came to a show-down and I tried to convey my feelings to him, but he misunderstood, as I expected he would. He believes that there is someone else, that I am tired of him.

Honestly, there is no one else. It's just that I can't go on pretending any longer. I'm dissatisfied, yet I'm afraid if I let him go I'll regret it.

He suggested that we stop seeing one another for a month. Would this bring us together again on a better basis or would it only prove that we can get along without each other? I wish I knew.

I suspect that the fault lies with me. Am I being self-centred and unfair? Please help me.

FALSE NOTE SOMEWHERE IN AFFECTION

Answer: You are inclined to be self-centred, but in this case you are not being unfair. On the contrary, you are being eminently fair.

As you say, every girl loves and values the little courtesies a man can show her, and every man in love should be on the alert to pay her these courtesies.

If you can't be at ease and happy and proud with the one you love, then there is a false note somewhere in your affection and you must either discover and silence that note or stop your love song.

It seldom happens that love out of tune in the Spring, swells to a diapason of harmony in Summer.

You need have no regret for "letting go" of anyone who sets your nerves on edge or drives you distracted with boredom. That's not a loss, it's a clear gain.

The month's leave proposed by your young man is a sensible suggestion.

If it brings you together in a more perfect understanding so that you can strike chords instead of discords, it will be well worth the sacrifice of separation.

If it proves you can get along more harmoniously without one another, that is something you both should know and should be thankful to learn now instead of too late.

Even to follow Scriptural example may be embarrassing at times. A Souhtern judge had to decide a case curiously like the one that exercised the wisdom of Solomon.

Two Negro women each asserted that a little baby boy, brought into court, belonged to her. Obviously this was an opportunity for the judge to follow Solomonic precedent. He told the women that he would cut the child in two and give each of them one half.

The rival claimants were dreadfully upset, and they both screamed: "Don't do that, boss. You kin keep him yourself."

BOARD NOT TO CLOSE SCHOOL

Saanichton Structure to Remain Open This Year, Trustees Decide

Saanichton School will not be closed this year, it was decided by the Saanich School Board on Wednesday night. No advantage, either academically or financially, could be seen by the board after reviewing the situation.

It was intimated at a board session of May 15 that the school might be closed as an economy measure. However, Trustees Walter P. Jeune and Captain Nathaniel Gray interviewed interested parents and ratepayers on May 21, with the latter decidedly against closing the structure.

A general report was presented to the school board on the parents' meeting by Trustee Gray, while Trustee Jeune compared figures on Saanichton School costs for the past three years. He reasoned no advantage would come to the board by closing the school.

CHAPTER XXIX

Day after day I lay in my bed, staring at the ceiling till night blotted it out. The dreadful anguish at my bereavement came only at intervals, succeeded by an apathy that served as a merciful relief. But most I thought of Silver Heels, and why she had left me here, and when she might return.

One late afternoon the doctor came with a dish of China oranges.

"Tell me when my cousin Felicity is coming back. Have you not heard from Sir John Johnson?"

"Yes—I have heard," replied the doctor cautiously.

I waited, my eyes searching his face.

"Sir John returns tomorrow," he said.

"Tomorrow." I repeated.

"Miss Warren will remain in Boston," he said.

"How long?" I asked.

"I do not know."

"Doctor," I muttered, "I am heartsick for a familiar face. Where are the people who have lived in this house? It is scarce four months that I have been away, yet all is strange—new servants everywhere, no old, friendly faces. Is there not one soul unchanged?"

"Have I changed?" he asked.

"Yes—you are grey, grey—and smaller, and you stoop when you sit."

After a moment he said: "These are times to age all men. Have you yourself not aged in these five months? You went away a fresh-faced lad. You return a man, singed already by the first breath of a fire which will scorch this land to the bedded rock."

Presently I asked, "Is war certain?"

He nodded, looking at the floor.

"And—and the Six Nations?" I asked again.

"On our side, surely," he said in a low voice.

"On our side?" I repeated.

"When I say 'our side' I assume you to be loyal, Mr. Cardigan. If you have become tainted with rebel heresy since you left us, thank God you have returned in time to purge your mind," he continued sternly. "Sir William has gone—heaven rest his brave soul!—but Sir John is alive to take no uncertain stand in the face of this wicked rebellion."

"There is one man I should like to see," I said, "and that is Mr. Duncan. Will you send to the guardhouse and beg him to come to me, Doctor?"

"Aye, that I will, lad," he said cheerily.

After he left I must have fallen into a light sleep, for when I unclosed my eyes I saw Mr. Duncan beside me, looking down into my face.

"Well, well, well!" he muttered, smiling, while the tears stood in his pleasant eyes. "Here is our soldier home again—eh?"

"Now," I said, "explain to me all that has happened. Tell me everything."

"You must know," he said "that Colonel Guy Johnson is now superintendent of Indian affairs in North America for His Majesty. He has appointed as deputies Colonel Claus and Colonel John Butler——"

"Who?" I exclaimed.

"Colonel Butler," repeated Mr. Duncan. "He and Joseph Brant are organizing the loyalists and Indians north of us. This border war in Virginia has set the Six Nations afire. There was but one man in the world who could have controlled them——"

He paused.

"I knew it," said I. "You mean Sir William."

"Aye, Mr. Cardigan, I mean Sir William. Well, well, there is no help now. It is Sir John Johnson's policy to win over the savages to our side; but I often think Sir William knew best how to manage them. It will be dreadful, dreadful! I would give all I possess to see the savages remain neutral in this coming strife."

After a silence I asked him what month of the year it was.

"October," he said pityingly. "Did you not know it?"

"When did Sir William—die?" I muttered painfully.

"On Monday, the eleventh of July."

"Tell me—all," I motioned with quivering lips.

"It is history," he said simply. "I will tell you you what I heard and what I witnessed.

"On the first day of July we received news of the murder of Bald Eagle, a friendly Delaware chief. Rumor had it that one of my Lord Dunmore's agents had slain the old man, but that, of course, is preposterous. It is hard to sift truth out of rumors. Why, some said even that young Walter Butler had murdered the old man."

"Go on," I said grimly.

"Well, then, this murder was committed while the old man was sitting in his canoe on one of the streams near Fort Pitt. After tearing the scalp from the old man, the murderer set him afloat in his canoe. The ghastly progress of the dead was seen by Indians and whites, and the news roused the Six Nations to fury.

"You know that even after the Logan outrage Sir William had held back the warriors of the Long House; but this fresh crime drove them frantic. They might still have held off had not bald Eagle been scalped, but you know, Mr. Cardigan, that the Six Nations always regard the scalping of a murdered man as a national act, not an individual one, and always accept it as a declaration of war."

"I know," I said.

"The sachems of the Long House," continued Mr. Duncan, "immediately notified Sir William that they desired to see him without delay. Lord! Lord! A great man died in last July, and who can take his place?"

Again he wiped his brow.

"The Indians came here in hordes," he resumed. "From morning till night Sir William was engaged in talking with them, persuading and promising and exerting himself tirelessly to hold the gathering tempest in check.

"By the seventh of July we had a thousand Indians assembled here. The sachems and chiefs were earnestly pleading for the congress. Sir William was sick abed and suffering pitifully, but he refused to listen to Dr. Pierson and rose.

"The weather was frightfully hot. The whole of the first day was occupied by the speeches of the war chiefs.

"The next day was the Sabbath. Sir William lay abed all day, unable to see for the frightful pains in his head. Yet the following day, at half-past nine in the morning, Sir William was at the fire, belts in hand."

"Yes?" I muttered, to urge him on as he paused.

"Never, never, Mr. Cardigan, had anyone heard Sir William speak with such eloquence. Sick unto death as he was, he stood there in the burning July sun, hour after hour, in the cause of peace. He spoke with all the fire of youth; his words held the savages' grave and strained attention until the end."

Mr. Duncan paused again, staring at space as though to fix that last scene in his mind forever.

"I was commanding the escort," he said. "My men saluted as the Indians left the congress. When the last chief had disappeared, I saw that Sir William was in distress and ran to him. He lurched forward into my arms. I held him a moment. He tried to speak, but all he could say was, 'Tell Michael I am proud—of—him,' and then he fell back full weight. We got him to the Hall and laid him on the library couch. A gillie rode breakneck for Sir John, who was at the old fort nine miles away. Mistress Molly had gone to Schenectady; there remained no one of his own kin here."

Mr. Duncan leaned forward, with his face in his hands.

"Sir John came too late," he said; "Sir William died utterly alone."

After a moment I asked who had succeeded Sir William.

"In title and estate Sir John succeeds him," said Mr. Duncan, "but the King has conferred the Intendency of Indian Affairs on Colonel Guy Johnson."

"Is he a close friend as ever of Colonel Butler and Joseph?"

"Quite. Joseph Brant is a special deputy, too."

"Then God save our country," I replied, and closed my eyes.

"When Sir John returns from Boston you will hear the will read," said Mr. Duncan presently.

"Why did he take Miss Warren?"

"I'm sure I do not know," he answered.

"Will she return with him?"

"I cannot say—but I suppose she will," replied Mr. Duncan, looking curiously at me.

"Did Miss Warren see me while I was ill?"

"Aye, that she did," he cried. "She never left you; they could not drag her away to eat enough to keep a bird alive. And all the time Sir John was fuming and impatient to be off to Boston, but Miss Warren would not go until the doctor was able to promise on his sacred honor that you would recover completely in mind and body."

Presently—for I was becoming very tired—I asked about the two forest runners who had brought me hither, not mentioning their names for prudence's sake.

"I don't know where they are," said Mr. Duncan, rising to go. "The little, mild-spoken man disappeared the day that Sir John and Miss Warren left for Boston. The other, the big, swaggering fellow, abandoned by his running mate, hunted about the village for a week, swearing that there was foul play somewhere, and that his comrade would never willingly have deserted him. Then our magistrate, Squire Bullock, was robbed on the King's highway—aye, and roundly cursed for a Tory thief—by this same graceless giant who brought you here. They sought for him, but you know how these fellows travel. He may be in Quebec now, for aught I know—the impudent rascal."

After a moment I said, "Miss Warren, you say, cared for me while I lay ill?"

"Like a mother—or fond sister."

I closed my eyes partly.

He looked down at me and pressed my hand.

"I have tired you," he said gently.

"No, you have given me life," I answered smiling.
